New Puppet Government Recognized

Russians Say Finnish Troops Burning Many Villages

MOSCOW, Dec. 2—Four great columns of Russian troops, using parachute landings, artillery, and tanks to achieve their objectives, today pressed deeper into Finland in a campaign stretching from the Arctic to the Gulf of Finland.

An official war bulletin, released to foreign correspondents while the Soviet public itself remained in ignorance of the scope of the push against Finland, indicated that the quadruple drive took this form:

- 1—An offensive across the Finnish Corridor to the Arctic, in the Petsamo sector, aimed to cut the Finns off from the Murmansk.
- 2—Penetration of the central lake district.
- 3—A push around the north of Lake Ladoga, directed to cut off the Finns' retreat from the Karelian isthmus.
- 4—A drive straight up the Karelian isthmus towards Viborg.

Two Russian planes are missing, it was admitted.

Declaring that the new Finnish government headed by Premier Risto Ryti, and with V. A. Tanner as foreign minister, did not "improve the situation," the Soviets today formally recognized the provisional government set up at Terijoki.

At the request of "president" Otto Kuusinen, diplomatic relations will be resumed, the president of the Soviet Parliament in Moscow announced.

The Russian general staff's overnight communique gave these details of the widespread advance of the Russian columns:

BOMBING ATTACK FEARED

Thousands Flee Into Cold Regions To Escape Towns In Danger Region

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 2—Spurred on by new government leaders pledged to fight for Finland's independence, Finnish troops today advanced over the frozen Lapland tundra and recaptured Petsamo, the country's northernmost port.

The battle of the Arctic, according to official quarters, was but one of a series of successes on land and sea and in the air. Russian troops were reported pushed back in the South, at least one Russian warship was destroyed, 20 Red planes and 36 tanks were wrecked.

Finding victory on the frontiers difficult, the Soviet forces are preparing a large-scale air attack, according to the general belief prevailing in this anxious capital.

Facing privation and possibly death in the sub-Arctic cold, scores of thousands poured out of Helsingfors and other towns today. Compulsory evacuation has been ordered for all cities and towns, but has not yet been put into effect in Helsingfors.

Snow began falling heavily during the night and the cold became intense.

Several Persons Bruised In Series Of Mishaps In Circleville Area

Three persons were hurt, none seriously, in auto accidents in Pickaway County Friday and Saturday.

How Harold Odaffer, 49, of Ashville, escaped with bruises when his car was struck by a Pennsylvania freight train at the crossing on Route 104 at 4 p. m. Friday is a puzzle to persons who have viewed his wrecked automobile.

Mr. Odaffer was driving northward on Route 104. "It was raining hard and the train popped right out in front of me," he said. His car skidded into the engine and overturned. Mr. Odaffer escaped without any cuts or broken bones and said his clothing was not even torn.

The Pennsylvania freight train, coming to Circleville, was in charge of George McGrath, engineer, and J. F. Ruff, conductor, both of Lancaster. Mr. Odaffer rode to Circleville on the train for a physical examination. His car was practically demolished.

Miss Virginia Roth, 21, and her sister, Miss Mary, 18, both of 430 Thurman Avenue, Columbus, were treated in Berger Hospital early Saturday for cuts and bruises suffered in an auto accident on Route 23 just north of Circleville near the Liston farm. Miss Virginia was cut on the left foot and right forehead. Miss Mary had a laceration on the left thigh. Both were discharged after treatment.

The car in which the two women were riding was reported to have stopped in the highway and was struck by an auto driven by Leland Dunkle, who resides about two miles north of Circleville along Route 23. Mr. Dunkle was en-

DOLORES COSTELLO OF FILMS ON HONEYMOON

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 2—Hollywood friends of Dolores Costello, noted film beauty in the silent era, learned with surprise today that she had eloped to Prescott, Arizona, where she became the bride of Dr. John Vruwink, prominent Hollywood physician.

Miss Costello was the former wife of John Barrymore and was divorced from him in 1935.

The actress and her new husband were reported to be on a honeymoon somewhere in Arizona today. They were believed to have been married Wednesday.

BUCKEYE COACH INTERESTED IN STANFORD POST?

COLUMBUS, Dec. 2—Recurring reports that Francis Schmidt, head football coach at Ohio State University, would be offered a similar post at Leland Stanford University in California were prevalent around Columbus today.

Athletic officials at Ohio State disclaimed any knowledge of the rumors. Schmidt was in New York to attend the Dartmouth-Stanford game today but could not be reached for a statement on the matter.

Stanford authorities also were reluctant to discuss the subject. It was reliably reported, however, that Tiny Thornhill, Stanford coach, would resign soon after the game today.

European Bulletins

LONDON—Two German boats, the 2185-ton Hamburg freighter Eilbek and the 215-ton trawler Sophie Busse, have been captured and brought into British ports, it was announced today.

STOCKHOLM—Strong representations on behalf of Finland have been made to Moscow by the Swedish government, it was reported today. Sweden's foreign affairs committee met and discussed the situation today.

HELSINGFORS—Hardy Finnish seal hunters, trained for shooting in the rigors of Lapland, formed the military units which yesterday annihilated two Russian companies, it was understood today.

HEAVY RAIN FALLS

One third of an inch of rain fell in Circleville in the 24 hours prior to 8 a. m. Saturday. The exact measurement was .35 of an inch. The temperature varied only three degrees from Friday afternoon until Saturday morning. Highest temperature Friday was 49. Lowest in the night was 46.

G. O. P. CHEERS DEWEY'S STEP

Campaign To Help Interest, Officials Say; Bridges, Taft On Tours Now

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—Formal entry of Thomas E. Dewey, New York prosecutor, into the 1940 presidential arena was hailed with delight by Republican leaders today in belief his campaigning will create new party interest, whether or not he wins the G. O. P. nomination.

At Republican national headquarters, Publicity Director Franklyn Waltman reflected G. O. P. reaction by saying:

"Dewey will help to build up party spirit. He'll make the headlines and give us a good push early in the campaign. Our attitude here (at headquarters) is the more the merrier. We have no favorites and bless all of them, hoping each one does his best."

The G. O. P. already has Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, and Senator H. Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire, out on speech-making tours. Taft, now in the Southwest, is heading back home before visiting the East and New England. Bridges is on the West coast.

Now, Dewey will start campaigning, with an initial speech in Minneapolis next week. Leaders here wish a dozen more candidates including Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, would get out through the country making "good party speeches."

As for Dewey's chances of winning the nomination, G. O. P. leaders withheld comment. It was apparent they will wait to judge the nation's reaction to his speeches on major national issues, starting with his farm speech at Minneapolis next week.

FLAMES LEVEL PROPERTY NEAR WILLIAMSPORT

A seven room house on the Walter Hughes farm in Deer Creek Township, about four miles southwest of Williamsport, was destroyed by fire Friday night. Loss on the house and contents is estimated at $3,500. C. E. Hill, Williamsport fire chief, reported. Mr. Hughes resides in Clarksburg.

The blaze was discovered about 7:30 o'clock while Ernest Christopher, the tenant, and his family were eating their supper. The fire started in the upstairs. Due to the lack of water and the headway of the flames the Williamsport fire department was unable to save the building. A smokehouse was destroyed. Some articles of household goods were carried from the home.

The residence and contents are partially covered by insurance.

Human Bombs Threaten Finns

HUMAN bombs, these Russian machine-gunners are destined to be dropped into Finnish territory from Soviet warplanes. They have had long, intensive training in the parachuting technique, are expected to get a chance to try out the maneuver under fire as mighty Russia carries out its "defensive" war with puny Finland.

LIVESTOCK FROM MERCHANT SHIPS MANY NATIONS DOWNED IN WAR IN COMPETITION TOTAL NEAR 160

Prize polled shorthorn stock from the herd of C. B. Teegardin and Sons, Duval, is being shown at Chicago. The stock annually wins many prizes in state, national and international competition.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2—With 13,322 blue ribbon cattle, horses, sheep and hogs as the star performers, the 40th International Livestock Exposition opened today for a week of competition and exhibition.

The blue bloods of the animal kingdom were assembled from 41 states and several foreign countries to compete for $100,000 in prizes, and 125,000 visitors were expected for the big show which annually charts new frontiers in agricultural science.

Scotland, Canada, England, Belgium, Australia and Argentina were among countries which sent animals and grain to be judged.

The first toast of the contests today went to Miss Esther Sorenson, 17, attractive and blue-eyed, who won the noncollegiate stock judging contest yesterday.

Miss Sorenson, who lives near Hastings and is planning to attend North Dakota Agricultural College, was the only girl among 69 4H club members who competed for the championship.

TO DRAW JURORS

An order to draw 15 grand and 30 petit jurors for the January term of Common Pleas Court was filed Saturday by Judge Meeker Terwilliger. The January term of court opens January 2.

U. S. REPRISALS AGAINST REDS?

President May Meet With Leaders To Discuss War In Finland

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—President Roosevelt is expected to discuss with congressional leaders the advisability of American diplomatic reprisals against Soviet Russia, it was learned today in authoritative quarters.

At the same time, it was indicated that the state department soon may publicly proclaim a "moral" embargo on shipments of aircraft and armaments to the Soviet.

Such action, however, would be a formality since government military officials already were revealed to have taken steps to halt the flow of arms to Russia. All efforts by Russia to acquire American aircraft are being blocked by national defense leaders, a high official disclosed.

Legally the government has no grounds on which to stop sales of American aircraft to Russia unless the army and navy have recently bought craft of the type the Soviet is known to be seeking. It can, however, let manufacturers know that consummation of any deals with Russia would be frowned on officially.

After denouncing Russia's invasion of Finland in blistering language yesterday, President Roosevelt said he expected to discuss various aspects of the Soviet-Finnish situation with congressional chiefs.

These discussions, it was reported, will deal largely with the growing clamor for a diplomatic break with the Soviet government.

COATES INFANT WINS PRIZES AS FIRST OF MONTH

First baby of the month awards for December go to Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Coates, 624 South Scioto Street, who announce the birth of a daughter in Berger Hospital at 10:22 a. m. Saturday. The baby, their first child, weighs seven pounds and six ounces. Mr. Coates is an electrician. Dr. E. L. Montgomery was the attending physician.

Awards to the parents and the first baby of the month include a carton of lamps from the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company, $1 savings account for the baby in The Circleville Savings & Banking Company, a pass to the Clifton Theatre for one month, floral tribute from Brehmer's, steak dinner for the parents at Stone's Grill, and a three month subscription to The Circleville Herald.

EX-RED TO GO BEFORE SOLONS AND FIRST LADY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—The Dies committee today planned to hear a former high ranking Communist tell why he deserted the leadership of Russian Dictator Stalin, whose planes are now bombing Finnish cities.

He is Joy Lovestone of Detroit, head of the "Lovestone Faction" of the Communist party, and formerly one of the top Communist leaders in the United States.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was expected to return to the Dies committee hearing for the third day. The committee had promised Joseph Cadden, secretary of the American Youth Congress, a chance to answer a charge that the youth leaders gave false testimony.

The first lady of the land, acting as patroness of heads of the American Youth Congress and the American Student Union, continued conferences with the youth leaders despite charges made before the committee that Communists have sought to control their organizations.

In the presence of Mrs. Roosevelt, Joseph Lash, secretary of the student union, defended Communist participation in it, but heatedly denied any sympathy for Communism and denied that Communists control the union.

MEDICS HEAR DR. SIMMS

Dr. George Simms of Mt. Carmel Hospital, x-ray and radium specialist and pathologist, showed slides in technicolor Friday at the luncheon meeting of the Pickaway County Medical Society. The slides illustrated the effect of x-ray on non-malignant conditions. Fourteen physicians attended the meeting which was held in Hanley's Sandwich Shop.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 2—The condition of J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, notorious "mouthpiece" for the Dutch Schultz policy racket gang in New York City, today was reported to be serious but not critical. Davis is suffering amoebic dysentery, according to his physician.

Davis, only recently released from a year's prison term for his part in the Schultz gang activities, is receiving treatment in Albuquerque hospital where he is registered under the name of Buxton, the maiden name of his wife, the former Hope Dare, New York show girl.

19 SHOPPING DAYS TO CHRISTMAS

TIGER CAGERS LOSE ONE-POINT THRILLER IN OPENING TILT AT AMANDA

FIRST QUARTER ADVANTAGE TOO MUCH TO BEAT

Fairfield Lads Freeze Ball in Last Period To Gain 30 To 29 Verdict

CLEVENGER HITS HOOP

Reserves Put On Show To Gain 49-8 Margin Over Opposing Quintet

Amanda's ability to freeze the ball in the waning minutes of the game kept the fighting Circleville Tigers out of a victory in their first court game of the season Friday night on the floor of the Fairfield County team. The contest ended 30 to 29, Amanda being on the long end and by the skin of its teeth weathering the onslaughts of Roy Black's Red and Black.

The team that was runnerup in the district class B tournament last year and competed in state competition took a long lead on the Tigers as the game started, but the Red and Black boys were fighting hard for every point, and came within a single bucket of winning the encounter. The ball game was a thriller in every respect, each team putting up a clean scrap.

First Quarter Fatal

It was the first quarter margin that proved too much for the Circleville boys. Young Ted Clevenger, the boy whose basket put Ashville's great team out of the district tourney last year, found a weak spot in the Tiger defensive armor to pierce it several times in the first period while the Tigers were finding Amanda's shifting zone too intricate to penetrate. As a result the lads mentored by Trevor Jones were far ahead as the quarter pole was reached, the score being 14-5.

The Tigers found themselves in the second period to throw a scare into the Amanda ranks by cutting the margin from nine points to seven at halftime, the score being 21-14.

Coach Black and his boys worked out a few defects during the halftime intermission and came back raring to go. Amanda's edge was cut by three more points when the Tigers put on the fan to run their score from 14 to 26 during the third session, Amanda adding nine.

The last period was a struggle between a team trying to protect a short lead and another team trying to wipe it out. A couple of missed dribble-in shots hurt the Red and Black early in the period, but the lead was cut to a single point as the seconds slipped away. Thirty-two seconds remained when Walters dropped in a free throw to put an end to the scoring, Amanda freezing the ball after that shot.

The hustle of the Red and Black team was interesting to watch, the boys showing surprising condition for their first encounter. None left the game on personals although Bowers had three chalked up in the first half. Davis and Staley ended the game with three against them, the same number being charged to Wayne Hiatt, Amanda ace.

Clevenger High Clevenger counted 12 points for the winners, 10 in the first half and Hiatt added 10, six in the first half. Davis with nine and Walters with eight paced the Red and Black.

The reserves put on an excellent exhibition of offensive and defensive ball in defeating Amanda 49-8. Amanda was held without a field goal until the last few minutes when a long shot connected. The zone defense set up by the reserve starters kept the Amanda boys far away from the basket.

Jim Callihan hit 16 points and Chubby Valentine had 14. Kohler had four free throws for the losers.

Next week the Tigers open their home season on Friday against the Greenfield McClain Tigers. The game will be played in the Athletic Club gymnasium and from all indications will be a honey.

MONROE LOSES THRILLING TILT TO PICKAWAY 5

Single Point Divides Two Strong League Foes Friday Evening

Pickaway Township boys, in a contest that threatened to become a fight as the game ended, kept their slate clean for the season in the county league by turning back Monroe Township, 25-24, Friday on the Pickaway court. The game was nip and tuck from the start and became rough when Referee Hutton permitted it to get away from him.

A foul in the last second of play by a Pickaway boy that apparently hurt a Monroe youngster brought part of the Monroe crowd onto the court. A general melee threatened, but didn't develop, cooler heads stopping the "festivities". The score was 25-23 at that point, Monroe dropping in a free toss to make it 25-24.

The game was a crucial one for both teams and both played hard ball throughout.

Monroe's girls, paced by Ankrum with 15 points, won 24-3 from the Pickaway team.

Ashville was forced to turn on the pressure against a scrapping Deerecreek team on the Williamsport court. The score was 30-22, the closest Junior Gregg, Barney Reese and Company have been held this year. Nineteen of the Ashville points were chalked by this pair.

Ashville girls gained a 13-12 edge.

Scioto broke an 11-11 halftime tie to take a boys' varsity game from Jackson, 23-13. Beavers were high for the winners, Bungarner getting all but three of the Jackson points.

The Scioto girls made it a clean sweep with a 20-18 margin.

Washington Township won 29-24 from Rockbridge in an exhibition, Wertman and Elliott getting most of the winning points. Rockbridge reserves were on top.

The results of the Saltercreek at Walnut and Darby at Perry games are not known, officials of the Walnut and Perry schools failing to telephone their reports.

ASSOCIATION TO KEEP PLAYOFF AT YEAR'S END

COLUMBUS, Dec. 2 — The American Association will retain the Shaughnessy playoff plan in 1940, it appeared today as Association directors went into the last session of their annual meeting.

Although final action on the plan was deferred until today, it was learned that strong opposition to the post season playoffs had dissolved, making it certain that no radical changes would be effected.

At the same time, the directors approved a 154-game schedule opening Thursday, April 18, and closing Sunday, Sept. 15. Both opening and closing dates are five days later than in 1939.

The moguls set the annual Association All-Star game for July 17. The matter of whether the Little World Series would be continued in 1940 was held in abeyance until the national minor league meeting in Cincinnati next week.

At the annual banquet last night, fitting tribute was paid to M. J. Kelly, president of the Minneapolis club, who has spent 40 of his 64 years in baseball. He was presented with a huge multi-layered cake in the form of a baseball diamond with a grandstand, bleachers and even pennants flying from the roof.

Gov. John W. Bricker, of Ohio, presented to H. Roy Hamey, secretary of the Kansas City Blues, a trophy for the Blues' feat in winning the 1939 regular playing season pennant.

RAIN TO HINDER SCHOOL SQUADS IN BOWL AFFRAY

COLUMBUS, Dec. 2 — The weatherman injected a blue note into today's first Buckeye Bowl game when he predicted possible rain accompanied by chilly temperatures.

But that dire threat failed to dim the enthusiasm of the competing high school pigskin aggregations, Portsmouth and Toledo Waite, neither of whom has been defeated this season.

Ticket Director Henry Taylor was unwilling to hazard an estimate on the size of the crowd because he had no reports on the volume of sales in Portsmouth and Toledo. Few tickets had been sold in Columbus and indications pointed to a slim crowd in Ohio State's massive horseshoe at kickoff time.

The game, sponsored by the Co-

Greenfield McClain, next foe of Circleville High School, dropped its opening game Friday evening on its own court to Columbus Aquinas, 33-25.

McClain's power was centered in its center and guards, Grate getting four points, Miller 14 and Newland six.

Washington C. H., another league opponent, defeated Delaware at Washington, 33-29. Card, Negro guard, getting 11 points.

MONROE SEEKS GAME

Monroe Township school is seeking a basketball game to be played in the new gymnasium at Five Points or on the road during the week of December 11. A note or call to Byron Stoer at the Five Points school would get results.

Jim Scott Has Veterans For Bishop Cage Team

DELAWARE, Dec. 2—The same team that won 16 out of 26 games last winter and took second in the Buckeye conference's last basketball campaign will represent Ohio Wesleyan in its 20-game schedule which opens next Saturday night, December 9, against Cornell College of Iowa here.

Coach Jim Scott, who takes over the job left by Ray Detrick, now with an Akron rubber firm, has the same eight veterans available who won letters last winter and a ninth letterman, LaMar Faught, of Marion, who was out of college last year but who played in 1937-38.

The eight are Dick Hartman, Findlay, and Jack Buttermore, Massillon, forwards; Ed Baroddy, Geneva, N. Y., center; Billy Hohn, Massillon, and Jim Reiser, New Philadelphia, guards, regulars last winter, and Homer Forsythe, Cambridge, a forward; Harry Kirchwehm, Springfield, center and Steve Donchess, Youngstown, a guard.

Best-looking sophomores are Bob Immett, Shaker Heights; Ed Hughes, Columbus; Russell Hoff, Mansfield; Don Uth, Massillon; Bob Heisler, Ravenna; Jack McKinney, Portsmouth, and Albie Leonard, Logan.

The schedule: Dec. 9—Cornell (Iowa) here; Dec. 16—Berea (Ky.) here; Dec. 20—at Kent State; Dec. 21—at Akron U.; Dec. 23—at University of Buffalo (N. Y.); Dec. 30—Xavier at Cincinnati; Jan. 4—Western Michigan Teachers here; Jan. 6—Miami at Oxford; Jan. 10—Wooster here; Jan. 13—Case here; Jan. 16—Ohio at Athens; Jan. 20—Muckingham here; Feb. 3—Dayton here; Feb. 7—DeSales at Toledo; Feb. 9—at Grand Rapids (Mich.); Feb. 10—Western State Teachers at Kalamazoo; Feb. 13—Oberlin here; Feb. 17—Miami here; Feb. 22—Ohio here; Feb. 27 at Dayton.

ED BARODDY OHIO WESLEYAN CENTER

ALTHOUGH he does little shooting, Ed Baroddy, Geneva, N. Y., veteran, is one of the stars on Ohio Wesleyan's basketball team which will play 20 games this winter. Baroddy, a center, prefers to pass the ball to teammates and won't shoot unless there's no one to whom to pass. As a sophomore last year he was a great defensive player.

Columbus Agonis Club and Columbus sportswriters, was an admitted experiment.

An interesting factor entering into the fray was the game played by Portsmouth and Waite in 1934. It was the only time the two schools ever clashed on the gridiron and Waite eked out a slim 19-to-14 victory. Consequently, the gridders from the Ohio River were anxious to erase the memory of that defeat.

TIGER CAGERS LOSE ONE-POINT THRILLER IN OPENING TILT AT AMANDA

FIRST QUARTER ADVANTAGE TOO MUCH TO BEAT

Fairfield Lads Freeze Ball in Last Period To Gain 30 To 29 Verdict

CLEVENGER HITS HOOP

Reserves Put On Show To Gain 49-8 Margin Over Opposing Quintet

Amanda's ability to freeze the ball in the waning minutes of the game kept the fighting Circleville Tigers out of a victory in their first court game of the season Friday night on the floor of the Fairfield County team. The contest ended 30 to 29, Amanda being on the long end and by the skin of its teeth weathering the onslaughts of Roy Black's Red and Black.

The team that was runnerup in the district class B tournament last year and competed in state competition took a long lead on the Tigers as the game started, but the Red and Black boys were fighting hard for every point, and came within a single bucket of winning the encounter. The ball game was a thriller in every respect, each team putting up a clean scrap.

First Quarter Fatal

It was the first quarter margin that proved too much for the Circleville boys. Young Ted Clevenger, the boy whose basket put Ashville's great team out of the district tourney last year, found a weak spot in the Tiger defensive armor to pierce it several times in the first period while the Tigers were finding Amanda's shifting zone too intricate to penetrate. As a result the lads mentored by Trevor Jones were far ahead as the quarter pole was reached, the score being 14-5.

The Tigers found themselves in the second period to throw a scare into the Amanda ranks by cutting the margin from nine points to seven at halftime, the score being 21-14.

Coach Black and his boys worked out a few defects during the halftime intermission and came back raring to go. Amanda's edge was cut by three more points when the Tigers put on the fan to run their score from 14 to 26 during the third session, Amanda adding nine.

The last period was a struggle between a team trying to protect a short lead and another team trying to wipe it out. A couple of missed dribble-in shots hurt the Red and Black early in the period, but the lead was cut to a single point as the seconds slipped away. Thirty-two seconds remained when Walters dropped in a free throw to put an end to the scoring, Amanda freezing the ball after that shot.

The hustle of the Red and Black team was interesting to watch, the boys showing surprising condition for their first encounter. None left the game on personals although Bowsher had three charged up in the first half. Davis and Staley ended the game with three against them, the same number being charged to Wayne Hiatt, Amanda ace.

Clevenger High

Clevenger counted 12 points for the winners, 10 in the first half and Hiatt added 10, six in the first half. Davis with nine and Walters with eight paced the Red and Black.

The reserves put on an excellent exhibition of offensive and defensive ball in defeating Amanda 49-8. Amanda was held without a field goal until the last few minutes when a long shot connected. The zone defense set up by the reserve starters kept the Amanda boys far away from the basket.

Jim Callahan hit 16 points and Chubby Valentine had 14. Kohler had four free throws for the losers.

Next week the Tigers open their home season on Friday against the Greenfield McClain Tigers. The game will be played in the Athletic Club gymnasium and from all indications will be a honey.

GREENFIELD LOSES FIRST TILT TO AQUINAS SQUAD

Greenfield McClain, next foe of Circleville High School, dropped its opening game Friday evening on its own court to Columbus Aquinas, 33-25.

McClain's power was centered in its center and guards, Grate getting four points, Miller 14 and Newland six.

Washington C. H., another league opponent, defeated Delaware at Washington, 33-29. Card, Negro guard, getting 11 points.

Gov. John W. Bricker, of Ohio, presented to H. Roy Hamey, secretary of the Kansas City Blues, a trophy for the Blues' feat in winning the 1939 regular playing season pennant.

The moguls set the annual Association All-Star game for July 17. The matter of whether the Little World Series would be continued in 1940 was held in abeyance until the national minor league meeting in Cincinnati next week.

At the annual banquet last night, fitting tribute was paid to M. J. Kelly, president of the Minneapolis club, who has spent 40 of his 64 years in baseball. He was presented with a huge multi-layered cake in the form of a baseball diamond with a grandstand, bleachers and even pennants flying from the roof.

Jim Scott Has Veterans For Bishop Cage Team

DELAWARE, Dec. 2—The same team that won 16 out of 26 games last winter and took second in the Buckeye conference's last basketball campaign will represent Ohio Wesleyan in its 20-game schedule which opens next Saturday night, December 9, against Cornell College of Iowa here.

Coach Jim Scott, who takes over the job left by Ray Detrick, now with an Akron rubber firm, has the same eight veterans available who won letters last winter and a ninth letterman, LaMar Faught, of Marion, who was out of college last year but who played in 1937-38.

The eight are Dick Hartman, Findlay, and Jack Buttermore, Massillon, forwards; Ed Barody, Geneva, N. Y., center; Billy Hohn, Massillon, and Jim Reiser, New Philadelphia guards, regulars last winter, and Homer Forsythe, Cambridge, a forward; Harry Kirchweh, Springfield, center and Steve Donchess, Youngstown, a guard.

Best-looking sophomores are Bob Immel, Shaker Heights; Ed Hughes, Columbus; Russell Hoff, Mansfield; Don Uth, Massillon; Bob Heisler, Ravenna; Jack McKinney, Portsmouth, and Albie Leonard, Logan.

The schedule: Dec. 9—Cornell (Iowa) here; Dec. 16—Berea (Ky.) here; Dec. 20—at Kent State; Dec. 21—at Akron U.; Dec. 23—at University of Buffalo (N. Y.); Dec. 30—Xavier at Cincinnati; Jan. 4—Western Michigan Teachers here; Jan. 6—Miami at Oxford; Jan. 10—Wooster here; Jan. 13—Case here; Jan. 16—Ohio at Athens; Jan. 20—Mucknugum here; Feb. 3—Dayton here; Feb. 7—DeSales at Toledo; Feb. 9—at Grand Rapids (Mich.); Feb. 10—Western State Teachers at Kalamazoo; Feb. 13—Oberlin here; Feb. 17—Miami here; Feb. 22—Ohio here; Feb. 27 at Dayton.

RAIN TO HINDER SCHOOL SQUADS IN BOWL AFFRAY

COLUMBUS, Dec. 2 — The weatherman injected a blue note into today's first Buckeye Bowl game when he predicted possible rain accompanied by chilly temperatures.

But that dire threat failed to dim the enthusiasm of the competing high school pigskin aggregations, Portsmouth and Toledo Waite, neither of whom has been defeated this season.

Ticket Director Henry Taylor was unwilling to hazard an estimate on the size of the crowd because he had no reports on the volume of sales in Portsmouth and Toledo. Few tickets had been sold in Columbus and indications pointed to a slim crowd in Ohio State's massive horseshoe at kickoff time.

The game, sponsored by the Co-

ED BARODY Ohio Wesleyan Center

ALTHOUGH he does little shooting, Ed Barody, Geneva, N. Y., veteran, is one of the stars on Ohio Wesleyan's basketball team which will play 20 games this winter. Barody, a center, prefers to pass the ball to teammates and won't shoot unless there's no one to whom to pass. As a sophomore last year he was a great defensive player.

Iumbus Agonis Club and Columbus sportswriters, was an admitted experiment.

An interesting factor entering into the fray was the game played by Portsmouth and Waite in 1934. It was the only time the two schools ever clashed on the gridiron and Waite eked out a slim 19-to-14 victory. Consequently, the gridders from the Ohio River were anxious to erase the memory of that defeat.

NEGRO GHOSTS AHEAD, 48-45

Athletic Club Team Puts Up Great Fight Against Professional Team

The Negro Ghosts of Sioux City, Iowa, came to Circleville Friday evening for an exhibition against a team picked from the City Basketball League teams playing under the C. A. C. toga and won their game 48-45 after an excellent exhibition of basketball.

The Ghosts had plenty of power and put on a great show of ball handling, but their lead was never safe enough to permit them to play around as they had intended. The C. A. C. aggregation played plenty of basketball to keep the Ghosts on their toes.

The dribbling of Potter, guard, and the ball handling of Willie Ford, also a guard, featured the evening.

In a preliminary the Cooper Oils won 34-31 from the Linkhart team from Columbus, Gulick and Williams hitting eight points each to pace the winners.

SELL-OUT SURE FOR PRO GAME LISTED SUNDAY

By Lawton Carver
NEW YORK, Dec. 2—The greatest football show on earth awaits presentation tomorrow with the Washington Redskins 6 to 5 play for the National League championship against the ultimate winner in the Western division.

With prospects bright for a fast field and a thrill-packed game, enthusiasm has reached a peak in some quarters seldom before attained for a sports event and the Polo Grounds, with an approximate seating capacity of 60,000, has been an assured sellout for weeks.

Fourteen special trains carrying an estimated 10,000 Washington rooters will pull in tomorrow morning and shortly thereafter confusion in mid-town hotels will be general.

Part of the festivities will include a parade on Broadway by the Giants' and Redskins bands, with rooters for the respective causes in their wake, all heaped toward the Polo Grounds, with the gates almost certain to be locked an hour before game time. Only 4,000 bleacher seats will be offered for sale on the premises. All other tickets have gone.

The game will be the final of the season for these two eleven and the highlight of the final day for other teams in the circuit.

OHIO PRESBYTERIANS TO INCREASE WORK AT TAX-SUPPORTED COLLEGES

Conference December 8 Important

Circleville Church Members
Invited; Speakers Listed
For Dinner Session

The Westminster Foundation Program for Ohio, cooperating with the nation-wide campaign of the Presbyterian Church to strengthen its work on tax supported university campuses, will open the Ohio movement with a dinner at the Southern Hotel in Columbus on December 8. Many members of the Circleville church have been invited to the dinner.

The Ohio program, under the direction of Dr. George W. Rightmire, president-emeritus of Ohio State University, will seek to provide additional funds for facilities and personnel in meeting the increasing religious needs of the students at Ohio University, Athens; Bowling Green University, Bowling Green; Miami University, Oxford; and Ohio State University, Columbus.

Through its National Board of Christian Education, the Presbyterian Church recently conducted an intensive study on college and university campuses throughout the nation, and as a result, began a program of expansion in order to more effectively aid and advise "the church leaders of tomorrow"—the more than a million young men and women attending American educational institutions annually. The study indicates that 3,500 Presbyterian preference students are attending the four state universities in Ohio where Westminster Foundations are located. The Ohio Westminster Foundations are linked nationally with 48 other foundations and 53 colleges affiliated with the Presbyterian Church.

Philadelphia to Speak
The Columbus meeting will have as its speakers Dr. Lewis Seymour Mudge of the Board of Christian Education in Philadelphia, Dr. John Maxwell Adams, national director of the Westminster Foundations, and Dr. J. Harry Cotton, of the Broad Street Presbyterian Church, Columbus.

A general sponsoring committee is being formed and will include Presbyterian laymen and ministers in the synod. The national co-chairmen are Dr. Arthur H. Comp-ton, noted physicist and Nobel prize winner, University of Chicago, and Dr. John H. Finley, editor emeritus of the New York Times.

Membership of the State Board, a permanent group appointed by the synod to supervise the entire Westminster Foundation program in the state includes:

Spreading the Good News

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Matthew 10

By Alfred J. Buescher

Jesus called to Him His twelve disciples and gave them power to heal the sick and to cast out unclean spirits. He gave them their orders, as it were, and sent them to "spread the good news."

He told them to go to the "lost sheep of the children of Israel," and preach, "The Kingdom of Heaven is at hand." "What I tell you in darkness," He said, "that speak ye in light."

They were not to take any money or extra clothing with them, said Jesus, "for the workman is worthy of his meat." They were told to go to the house of whomever would receive them.

"Fear not," Jesus told the disciples, for as God careth for the sparrows He would care for them, for "ye are of more value than many sparrows." (GOLDEN TEXT—Revelation 22:17)

Spreading the Good News

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Newman Campbell
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for December 3 is Matthew 10, the Golden Text being Revelations 22:17, "And let him that heareth say, Come.")

JESUS CALLED His disciples to Him and sent them on their way to preach the gospel to the Jews. "Not to the Samaritans, and not to the Gentiles," He said, but to the "lost sheep of the children of Israel."

It is interesting to learn what we can of the character of these men who had left all and followed Jesus, even to martyrdom. We cannot know much about them, but some things we do know.

Andrew, one of the first to be chosen, brought his brother Simon Peter. Jesus named him Peter, "the Rock," you remember. Peter is often referred to as Jesus' best beloved disciple. He did not always do right. For instance, it was Peter who, after telling the Lord how much he loved Him, denied him thrice. But Peter always suffered terribly after he had done wrong. He was evidently a lovable and impulsive man.

Too Eager for Honor
James and John, sons of Zebedee, were sometimes too eager for honor, but they loved the Master dearly. Philip was afraid to venture; Bartholomew or Nathaniel was never deceitful; Thomas always wanted to be sure. (You know the saying, "Doubting Thomas.") Matthew honored his Lord at a feast and wrote a book about Him. Thaddaeus, or Judas, son of James, asked Jesus an important question; Simon was a zealot and was dissatisfied with Roman rule; while Judas Iscariot was not to be trusted, for he betrayed his Master for money, although it brought him only unhappiness and he destroyed himself.

These men were Jesus' chosen companions. After calling them to Him he gave them advice and sent them out to spread the good news. They are not to be worried about their personal needs, for they are to go forth without silver, gold or brass for their purses. They are to have no script for their journey, "neither two coats, neither shoes, nor yet staves; for the workman is worthy of his meat," Jesus told them. They are to go to any worthy person and be guests of the house. "And if the house be worthy, let your peace come upon it," He said. If they are not well received in a home, they are ordered to "shake the dust of it off their feet."

It will not be easy to preach the good tidings, they are warned. They will probably be arrested and brought before judges, governors and kings, and may be scourged in the synagogues. But they must not fear, for "Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing? and one of them shall not fall to the ground without your Father."

"But the very hairs of your head are numbered."

Fear Not
"Fear ye not therefore, ye are of more value than many sparrows." Jesus knew well that his message of peace and good would not be well received, and that there would be much bitterness and quarreling over it. "Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I came not to send peace, but a sword."

"For I am come to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law. And a man's foes shall be those of his own household."

Jesus must have said that sadly, knowing that it was true and must be told in fairness to the men He was sending out to spread the good news. And all through the centuries it has proved true that no subject has been so bitterly discussed as religion, even by people who profess to be His true followers. They have fought even over the interpretation of His words.

"The Spirit of Ages" will be the sermon theme of the Rev. W. D. Ramsey, pastor of Calvary Evangelical Church, for the service Sunday morning.

YOUNG FOLK OF CHURCH ARRANGING ACTIVITIES

Young folk of Calvary Evangelical Church met in the basement of the church Thursday evening for their annual Thanksgiving banquet and rally. A sumptuous meal was spread by the committee in charge, consisting of Mrs. W. D. Ramsey, and the Misses Ruth Carothers, Irma Kuhn, Margaret Davis and Miriam Weaver.

After the supper a program of choruses was in charge of Edward Bost and plans were made to conduct a religious survey of Circleville for the information of the church and pastor. The young ladies are to be in charge of the survey in the northern part of the city and the young men are to do the work in the southern section. The group completing its work first is to be entertained to a New Year's Party.

A special series of Sunday evening services will be sponsored by the young people during the next three weeks. Sunday evening, December 3, Wayne Baxter will be the speaker. Sunday evening the play, "The Revolt of Ann Hastings," will be given by a group of young ladies. On December 17 Ross Carothers will preach the evening sermon.

1,158 DINNERS SERVED AT LUTHER LEAGUE MEETING

A total of 1,158 meals was served in Trinity Lutheran Parish House during the Ohio District Luther League meeting last week end. There were 340 full time registrations and 487 for a part of the convention.

OHIO PRESBYTERIANS TO INCREASE WORK AT TAX-SUPPORTED COLLEGES

Conference
December 8
Important

Circleville Church Members
Invited; Speakers Listed
For Dinner Session

The Westminster Foundation Program for Ohio, cooperating with the nation-wide campaign of the Presbyterian Church to strengthen its work on tax supported university campuses, will open the Ohio movement with a dinner at the Southern Hotel in Columbus on December 8. Many members of the Circleville church have been invited to the dinner.

The Ohio program, under the direction of Dr. George W. Rightmire, president-emeritus of Ohio State University, will seek to provide additional funds for facilities and personnel in meeting the increasing religious needs of the students at Ohio University, Athens; Bowling Green University, Bowling Green; Miami University, Oxford; and Ohio State University, Columbus.

Through its National Board of Christian Education, the Presbyterian Church recently conducted an intensive study on college and university campuses throughout the nation, and as a result, began a program of expansion in order to more effectively aid and advise "the church leaders of tomorrow"—the more than a million young men and women attending American educational institutions annually. The study indicates that 3,500 Presbyterian preference students are attending the four state universities in Ohio where Westminster Foundations are located. The Ohio Westminster Foundations are linked nationally with 48 other foundations and 53 colleges affiliated with the Presbyterian Church.

Philadelphia to Speak
The Columbus meeting will have as its speakers Dr. Lewis Seymour Mudge of the Board of Christian Education in Philadelphia, Dr. John Maxwell Adams, national director of the Westminster Foundations, and Dr. J. Harry Cotton, of the Broad Street Presbyterian Church, Columbus.

A general sponsoring committee is being formed and will include Presbyterian laymen and ministers in the synod. The national co-chairmen are Dr. Arthur H. Compston, noted physicist and Nobel prize winner, University of Chicago, and Dr. John H. Finley, editor emeritus of the New York Times.

Membership of the State Board, a permanent group appointed by the synod to supervise the entire Westminster Foundation program in the state includes:

Spreading the Good News

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Matthew 10

By Alfred J. Buescher

Jesus called to Him His twelve disciples and gave them power to heal the sick and to cast out unclean spirits. He gave them their orders, as it were, and sent them to "spread the good news."

He told them to go to the "lost sheep of the children of Israel," and preach, "The Kingdom of Heaven is at hand." "What I tell you in darkness," He said, "that speak ye in light."

They were not to take any money or extra clothing with them, said Jesus, "for the workman is worthy of his meat." They were told to go to the house of whomever would receive them.

"Fear not," Jesus told the disciples, for as God careth for the sparrows He would care for them, for "ye are of more value than many sparrows." (GOLDEN TEXT—Revelation 22:17)

Spreading the Good News

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Newman Campbell
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for December 3 is Matthew 10, the Golden Text being Revelations 22:17, "And let him that heareth say, Come.")

JESUS CALLED His disciples to Him and sent them on their way to preach the gospel to the Jews. "Not to the Samaritans, and not to the Gentiles," He said, but to the "lost sheep of the children of Israel."

It is interesting to learn what we can of the character of these men who had left all and followed Jesus, even to martyrdom. We cannot know much about them, but some things we do know.

Andrew, one of the first to be chosen, brought his brother Simon Peter. Jesus named him Peter, "the Rock," you remember. Peter is often referred to as Jesus' best beloved disciple. He did not always do right. For instance, it was Peter who, after telling the Lord how much he loved Him, denied him thrice. But Peter always suffered terribly after he had done wrong. He was evidently a lovable and impulsive man.

Too Eager for Honor
James and John, sons of Zebedee, were sometimes too eager for honor, but they loved the Master dearly. Philip was afraid to venture; Bartholomew or Nathaniel was never deceitful; Thomas always wanted to be sure. (You know the saying, "Doubting Thomas.") Matthew honored his Lord at a feast and wrote a book about Him. Thaddaeus, or Judas, son of James, asked Jesus an important question; Simon was a zealot and was dissatisfied with Roman rule; while Judas Iscariot was not to be trusted, for he betrayed his Master for money, although it brought him only unhappiness and he destroyed himself.

These men were Jesus' chosen companions. After calling them to Him he gave them advice and sent them out to spread the good news. They are not to be worried about their personal needs, for they are to go forth without silver, gold or brass for their purses. They are to have no script for their journey, "neither two coats, neither shoes, nor yet staves; for the workman is worthy of his meat," Jesus told them. They are to go to any worthy person and be guests of the house. "And if the house be worthy, let your peace come upon it," He said. If they are not well received in a home, they are ordered to "shake the dust of it off their feet."

It will not be easy to preach the good tidings, they are warned. They will probably be arrested and brought before judges, governors and kings, and may be scourged in the synagogues. But they must not fear, for "Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing? and one of them shall not fall to the ground without your Father."

"But the very hairs of your head are numbered."

Fear Not
"Fear ye not therefore, ye are of more value than many sparrows," Jesus knew well that his message of peace and good would not be well received, and that there would be much bitterness and quarreling over it.

"Think not that I am come to send peace on earth; I came not to send peace, but a sword."

"For I am come to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law. And a man's foes shall be those of his own household."

Jesus must have said that sadly, knowing that it was true and must be told in fairness to the men He was sending out to spread the good news. And all through the centuries it has proved true by people who profess to be His true followers. They have fought even over the interpretation of His words.

UN-AMERICAN GROUPS

SOME interesting information about "subversive groups" is being given by John C. Metcalf, a former newspaper man who has been serving as secret investigator for the Dies Committee. In a public talk he presents these facts and opinions, on the basis of wide travel, observation and inside knowledge.

The total strength of our un-American outfits he estimates at about "one million crackpots." It is hard, though, to gauge their numbers because some groups are more active than others.

He names the Silver Shirts, the Order of the White Camellia, the German-American Bund and the American League for Peace and Democracy, as vehicles used for spreading subversive propaganda. He considers them all dangerous, even though they may have been created mainly for other purposes and many of their activities are unobjectionable.

He finds no good whatever in the Communists, whom he accuses of working definitely to undermine American democracy. He finds Nazism and Fascism offensive in ideology, but not so dangerous because they have not gained much foothold here. Fascist sentiment and activity, he says, are mostly confined to Italian settlements and the general public is little affected by it.

Membership in these various groups includes aliens, naturalized Americans and native Americans. The alien, Mr. Metcalf reminds the public, is a guest in this country, and if he wants a voice in the way the country is run he should become a citizen and act like one.

Some aliens become citizens, he adds, "so they can more easily preach their doctrines of hate. We should try to weed out such enemies."

And for those native Americans who belong to alien groups and think another form of government is preferable to ours, "we should point out that boats leave daily for countries where they might be happier."

SAFETY FIRST

MOST Americans can agree with Senator Carter Glass that part of the neutrality law is humiliating, and yet disagree with him about wanting it repealed. It seems to be working about as it was intended to, and the public seems pretty well satisfied with it as an emergency measure to meet dangerous conditions.

The senator complains that the law is saying in effect: "Please, Mr. Hitler, where do you want our ships to go, and where shouldn't they go?" That's one way of expressing it. But most of the folks expressing themselves about the matter

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.

BRASS RING TO MISS PERKINS

WASHINGTON—If you study the Secretary of Labor as an individual, she is an intelligent, charming lady with a brilliant record as a social worker and as a crusader for the underdog. But if you examine her Department of Labor as an institution, the most charitable thing you can say of Miss Perkins is that she is no executive.

For, under her, the Department of Labor has become the step-child of the New Deal.

This is not a new story, for the Labor Department has been treated as a step-child before. When it was first established back in the days of Woodrow Wilson, it was given the horse and carriage discarded by Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan. And for years it was filled with desks and office furniture cast off by the Treasury and other older departments.

During the Roosevelt Administration, however, American labor has received a better break than ever before in our entire history. More laws benefiting labor have been passed, more money for labor has been appropriated. Yet the Labor Department itself has shrunk, dwindled, and faded into relative obscurity.

Miss Perkins' greatest blow was the government reorganization bill, by which the Employment Service was transferred to the Social Security Board.

Privately Miss Perkins blames her former assistant, Arthur Altmeyer, now Social Security Chairman, for selling the President's reorganization advisers the idea to transfer this bureau away from her. Later she got some measures of revenge by keeping Altmeyer from being appointed administrator of the new Federal Security Agency. But she never dreamed that Paul McNutt would get the job.

NO LADIES' MAN McNUTT

And now the handsome and chivalrous McNutt, target of most ladies' smiles, is engaged in a death feud with the only lady in the Cabinet.

He has been publicizing the number of men the Employment Service has put back to work since he took it over (without emphasizing too much the important factor of the business pick-up). And now, to cap the climax, he is endeavoring to euchre out from Madame Secretary her Children's Bureau.

This would be the toughest blow of all, for Miss Perkins really has a record which she can be proud of, it is as a crusader for women and children. However, McNutt claims that the maternal and child health services fit into his Public Health Service and it looks as if the White House would support him.

WORLD AT A GLANCE Charles P. Stewart

with a little "d"; not partisan Democracy, but the kind of world democracy that opposes totalitarianism, like Naziism, Communism and Fascism—democratic diplomacy in Washington is decidedly interested in what Il Duce Mussolini is up to in Italy. He's strengthening his army, but not, he says, with a view to Italian participation in the war of today. Instead he explains, he's doing it to make sure that his country gets what he thinks it's entitled to when peace is made. It's quite well known what he does think it's entitled to—Carcara, a good bit of French North Africa, maybe dominance over the British in Egypt and certainly control of the Balkans, regardless of Russia's claims. But what are his chances of getting what he wants?

Democratic ("d") observers give Benito credit for being a far abler statesman than Der Fuehrer Hitler. They don't like him, but they don't assess him as being what Winston Churchill called Hitler—a "maniac."

Now, has he got something up his sleeve? And, if he has, will it work?

him, of course, Adolf had Benito heavily outclassed as to military potency. Before the war started, France had him outclassed, too—not to mention France and Britain combined.

However, there are numerous rumors that Herr Hitler is up against plenty of discontent at home. We hear them here in the United States. Il Duce may know more about their reliability there. He may reckon that, if there's a prolonged war, Germany will revolute and become temporarily inconsequential, and that the Allies will be so completely tickered out that even they will hesitate to challenge an Italian grab.

The United States naturally won't be concerned.

Russia, in the Balkans, will remain to be offset.

Yet the minute that Russia is involved in a European conflict, though with so minor a power as Italy, the best guess is that Japan will jump on the Soviets in the Orient.

The Japs and Stalin have talked mutual anti-aggression, but nobody takes it for granted that that's more than skin deep.

IT'S A GAMBLE

It's an Italian gamble, to be sure.

Still, it isn't such a bad bet. It implies a complete betrayal of the Rome-Berlin axis, but who cares for a little act of treason, like that, these times!

American diplomacy isn't violently worried as to these possibilities. Its calculation is that Italy never will become a major power. It won't greatly affect us, anyway. But it may bother democratic Europe materially.

A federal Europe, like our federation of states, is the pacifistic idea.

The question is: How are democratic governments, like Britain's France's Holland's, Belgium's, Switzerland's and the Scandinavians, going to federate with the totalitarianists?

The democracies might get along with Il Duce Mussolini. Never with Der Fuehrer Hitler or Comrade Stalin.

Il Duce resorted to castor oil, but he didn't kill anybody, except a man or two who had proved troublesome. He never resorted to wholesale purges.

Benito didn't operate on a wholesale basis; he has been a retailer.

He's kept his country semi-civilized.

Keeping Tuberculosis On The Run

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE ARE in the season when the Christmas seals of the National Tuberculosis Association are distributed, and this column heartily recommends that everyone, who can possibly afford it, buy a page of them and use them. The money so accumulated by this association is well spent, and the advertising which you give to the movement by placing a seal on the back of your Christmas mail will spread interest in the great campaign.

We have tuberculosis on the run. That is the reason why this campaign must be encouraged. There has been a consistent decline in the death rate from tuberculosis in the United States from nearly 200 per cent to 100 per cent. Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

100,000 population in 1900 to about 50 for 1938. While this is gratifying, the statement does not picture the true situation. The round numbers tell us nothing about the special problems yet to be solved before the fight against tuberculosis can be declared won.

Your seals pay only for certain work done by your local tuberculosis society. Besides this work, the national government and state and county governments are spending a great deal of time and thought on tuberculosis control.

Contact Cases

A national health program was presented at the National Health Conference in Washington, July, 1938. The section on tuberculosis recommended case finding, especially by x-ray examination of contacts of known cases, isolation and treatment of persons with active disease, and periodic examination of those with latent or quiescent disease.

This summarizes the objectives of the present campaign against tuberculosis. In plain language it means that we now believe that most cases of tuberculosis in humans are acquired by contact with other humans. We also believe that the quickest and surest way of making a diagnosis in an adult is by an x-ray plate of the chest. Therefore, when a known case is found, it is logical to examine all the members of the family and other contacts by x-ray in order to spot others.

Following this, the logical step is to segregate in hospitals or sanatoria those who have open or contagious tuberculosis.

It is estimated that about 40,000 more beds for tuberculosis patients are needed in the United States.

Case finding in school children has been in operation since 1924. The school program suffers from failure to secure parental consent for the investigation of more than 50 to 60 per cent of the children. The advantages of the findings of tuberculosis in school children are twofold—to the affected child and to the community. Yet, these advantages are fully realized only when the investigation includes both children and family contacts.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. E. A.: "Is it definitely known what causes people to grit their teeth in their sleep? I have a friend who has done this annoying thing since childhood. Recently I read that grinding of teeth is in some cases one form of epilepsy which replaces the more usual falling-down procedure of the epileptic."

Answer—Grinding teeth is usually due to a habit and probably due to malocclusion or particular prominence of one tooth. It cannot be said that grinding the teeth is a nocturnal form of epilepsy.

C. C.: "My mother, who is 75 years of age, is suffering from gallstones. She does not want an operation. I have been told that sodium phosphate will ease her pains and help her a little. Kindly let me know."

Answer—I think your mother is very wise not to want an operation at the age of 75. It is very likely that with the use of sodium phosphate she will be able to live a long time in comfort. It should be taken in solution in the morning, before breakfast.

C. H. J.: "Would you please publish whether or not hay fever is contagious?"

Answer—No.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

By Marie Blizard

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:
FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.
NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.
ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby house.
DR. BILL MALLORY, close friend of Ellen's.
YESTERDAY: When Fabienne learns that Bill is at an excellent house every night, she suddenly decides to resume her work there, much to Ellen's delight.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

THEY WERE a small group in the settlement house dining room where a piano had been placed for rehearsal of the carols.

Fabienne consulted a card in her hand and looked up at the children with an encouraging smile. "The four tallest girls and the four tallest boys will stand over here to the right," she said, leading them to their positions. "The boys in back of the girls. Then Luigi, you and Ingaborg, Lee and Colleen will stand in the front row. That's right!"

Twelve foreign faces beamed at her.

"Now you look just like the picture that I showed you in the Christmas Carol book!" And indeed, they would, with the simple costumes Miss Winters was making out of donations for them—long bright woolen scarfs to wrap around their throats and long coats. Put a lantern in little Luigi's hand and the picture would come to life.

"Teacher," Colleen Flahei asked shyly, "What's the lantern for?"

"Oh, didn't I tell you about that? Well, you see the first little boys and girls who went out on Christmas Eve to spread good cheer with their carols did not have bright street lights, so they had to have a lantern to show the way from house to house over the soft snow."

"Were they cold standing in the snow?" The wistful voice of Lars, the tallest of the boys wanted to know. Fabienne's heart smote her. She knew what cold meant to this fatherless boy who lived in a miserable, unheated tenement. She said gently, "No, Lars, they weren't cold any more than we're going to be cold. Their hearts were light and happy because they were singing Christmas hymns of joy to make others happy. The way we're going to be."

But were they? These poor little mites. There'd be toys and candy and fruit for them at the settlement house, but where was that Christmas joy she was painting in their eager imaginations? Cold tenements. Wretchedness and poverty and dirt and sickness were their lot.

For her there would be the holiday of fables. The yule log and groaning board. The big tree in the library of Willoughby hall. The excitement of voices calling cheery greetings, the gaily colored ribbons and the mass of greens. The Christmas punch and the candle-lit table. The beautiful gowns and the Christmas ball.

She cleared her throat. "I can't tell you any more stories now. Dr. Mallory will be down in a minute and we want to be in our places all ready to sing when he comes in. Let's surprise him!"

She took her place at the piano and struck a chord for pitch. Twelve childish voices opened the song. Bill had come in.

She smiled at him briefly and gave her attention for the next half hour to her work.

Bill dismissed the children and drew a chair up beside hers where she sat at the piano.

"He said, 'You're a soffit.'"

"Smile when you say that," she said with simulated belligerence. "What gave you that idea?"

"Your face," he said, moving his eyes over it with serious eyes. "I thought it was immobile when first I saw you."

"It's the same face," she told him, wishing she could escape. If he

If he looked at her often that way, he'd read something of her admiration—yes, that was the way she put it to herself—in her eyes.

"No," he shook his head. "It's not the same face, or the same girl, at all. I was watching you from the gallery." They were rehearsing in the little theater. "And I saw your thoughts written all over your face when the Anderson boy asked you if they'd be cold standing in the snow."

"Well," she said staunchly, "aren't you sorry for these children? Who wouldn't be?" "Sure I'm sorry for them. But not about Christmas. I'm sorry for the people who think of Christmas in terms of comfort and expensive presents and big dances."

As if he had surprised her thoughts, Fabienne looked at him guiltily. "What's wrong with that?" she asked.

"There's nothing wrong with it, except that it isn't the real thing about Christmas. It's like looking at a rhinestone and being satisfied with it when there's a star to be touched."

"You think these children touch stars?"

"Yes," he said simply. "How?" She had to ask it. "They get something you can't wrap up in tissue paper. Something the best of shops can't sell you because there is no price on it."

"An orange, a bag of candy," she said, "and a Christmas tree in a settlement house."

"Fabienne, Fabienne, what a stupid little girl you are!" It was the first time he had called her by her name. "Do you think they get excited about an orange? Most of them snatch them every day. Or a Christmas tree? Yes, they do. But it's because it's a symbol of the whole spirit of the holiday that lifts them out of their lives. Now, I'm going to sound like a preacher."

"Go on," she said.

"It's a lift that doesn't disappear. With a lot of them it will. Because many of them are destined to finish their lives in poverty and ignorance. But some of them will always know what Christmas stands for. Do you know what it stands for, Fabienne?"

She shook her head.

"For hope, child. It's the birthday of Jesus Christ. No man can ever think of Him without thinking of hope. The little stable in Bethlehem. The star that guided the wise men. Everyone of these kids knows about that. It's some-

High office is like a pyramid; only two kinds of animals reach the summit, reptiles and eagles. —D'Alembert.

Today's Horoscope

Those who are celebrating birthdays today may look forward to a year of steadily prosperity. There is prospect of gain through an older or by inheritance. A child born on this date will probably be somewhat erratic and unstable, self-willed and rebellious. He or she will, nevertheless, possess a certain dignity and charm of manner, and be moderately fortunate throughout life.

Hints on Etiquette

In writing a social letter, the correct sequence of pages is the simplest, namely, one, two, three, four. When writing a short note, however of two pages only you may use one and three for a better balance.

Horoscope for Sunday

A fortunate year is ahead of those whose birthday is today. Gain will come through business, inheritance, young people and ecclesiastical matters. The child born today will be artistic and musical, but too much inclined to the opposite sex. Health should be guarded all life long, and unnecessary risks avoided.

UN-AMERICAN GROUPS

SOME interesting information about "subversive groups" is being given by John C. Metcalf, a former newspaper man who has been serving as secret investigator for the Dies Committee. In a public talk he presents these facts and opinions, on the basis of wide travel, observation and inside knowledge.

The total strength of our un-American outfits he estimates at about "one million crackpots." It is hard, though, to gauge their numbers because some groups are more active than others.

He names the Silver Shirts, the Order of the White Camellia, the German-American Bund and the American League for Peace and Democracy, as vehicles used for spreading subversive propaganda. He considers them all dangerous, even though they may have been created mainly for other purposes and many of their activities are unobjectionable.

He finds no good whatever in the Communists, whom he accuses of working definitely to undermine American democracy. He finds Nazism and Fascism offensive in ideology, but not so dangerous because they have not gained much foothold here. Fascist sentiment and activity, he says, are mostly confined to Italian settlements and the general public is little affected by it.

Membership in these various groups includes aliens, naturalized Americans and native Americans. The alien, Mr. Metcalf reminds the public, is a guest in this country, and if he wants a voice in the way the country is run he should become a citizen and act like one.

Some aliens become citizens, he adds, "so they can more easily preach their doctrines of hate. We should try to weed out such enemies."

And for those native Americans who belong to alien groups and think another form of government is preferable to ours, "we should point out that boats leave daily for countries where they might be happier."

SAFETY FIRST

MOST Americans can agree with Senator Carter Glass that part of the neutrality law is humiliating, and yet disagree with him about wanting it repealed. It seems to be working about as it was intended to, and the public seems pretty well satisfied with it as an emergency measure to meet dangerous conditions.

The senator complains that the law is saying in effect: "Please, Mr. Hitler, where do you want our ships to go, and where shouldn't they go?" That's one way of expressing it. But most of the folks expressing themselves about the matter

WASHINGTON—If you study the Secretary of Labor as an individual, she is an intelligent, charming lady with a brilliant record as a social worker and as a crusader for the underdog. But if you examine her Department of Labor as an institution, the most charitable thing you can say of Miss Perkins is that she is no executive.

For, under her, the Department of Labor has become the step-child of the New Deal.

This is not a new story, for the Labor Department has been treated as a step-child before. When it was first established back in the days of Woodrow Wilson, it was given the horse and carriage discarded by Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan. And for years it was filled with desks and office furniture cast off by the Treasury and other older departments.

During the Roosevelt Administration, however, American labor has received a better break than ever before in our entire history. More laws benefiting labor have been passed, more money for labor has been appropriated. Yet the Labor Department itself has shrunk, dwindled, and faded into relative obscurity.

Miss Perkins' greatest blow was the government reorganization bill, by which the Employment Service was transferred to the Social Security Board.

Privately Miss Perkins blames her former assistant, Arthur Altmeyer, now Social Security Chairman, for selling the President's reorganization advisers the idea to transfer this bureau away from her. looked at her often that way, he'd read something of her admiration—yes, that was the way she put it to herself—in her eyes.

"No," He shook his head. "It's not the same face or the same girl, at all. I was watching you from the gallery." They were rehearsing in the little theater. "And I saw your thoughts written all over your face when the Anderson boy asked you if they'd be cold standing in the snow."

"Well," she said staunchly, "aren't you sorry for these children? Who wouldn't be?" "Sure I'm sorry for them. But not about Christmas, I'm sorry for the people who think of Christmas in terms of comfort and expensive presents and big dances."

As if he had surprised her thoughts, Fabienne looked at him guiltily. "What's wrong with that?" she asked.

"There's nothing wrong with it, except that it isn't the real thing about Christmas. It's like looking at a rhinestone and being satisfied with it when there's a star to be touched."

"You think these children touch stars?"

"Yes," he said simply. "How?" she had to ask it.

"They get something you can't wrap up in tissue paper. Something the best of shops can't sell you because there is no price on it."

"An orange, a bag of candy," she said, "and a Christmas tree in a settlement house."

"Fabienne, Fabienne, what a stupid little girl you are!" It was the first time he had called her by her name. "Do you think they get excited about an orange? Most of them snitch their lives in poverty and ignorance. But some of them will always know what Christmas stands for. Do you know what it stands for, Fabienne?"

She shook her head. "For hope, child. It's the birthday of Jesus Christ. No man can ever think of Him without thinking of hope. The little stable in Bethlehem. The star that guided the wise men. Everyone of these kids knows about that. It's something that belongs to everyone of them. Something that they sense as a greater gift than the orange or the bag of candy. That's why the Christmas spirit is something complete and beautiful. Can you be sorry for them when they have that? Or can you be sorry for the people who haven't?"

"For both," she said in a still voice. "But these children—" "When they're men and women, they'll remember what they felt when they were children. The stable in Bethlehem and what it stands for, the feeling that thrills these young hearts when they sing the carols will always be there."

She held out her hand to him and said, "Thanks for telling me, Bill. Telling me something I should have known. Only, you see I'm not religious."

"You're a lot of things you don't even know about," he said cryptically. "Including a darn good disciplinarian. You've done a mighty good job on this project. Going to be around Christmas to hear the fruits of your labor?"

"I'm taking the nine o'clock train to Maryland. I'll hear the carols and rush to the station. I'll be in by two. And two o'clock is practically the shank of the evening in my part of the world. You staying in New York?"

"Yeah. A doctor can't run away for holidays. But don't you worry about me. Ellen's taking pity on me. Wish you were going to be here, too."

He didn't! Not to see Bill and Ellen laughing over the same things, sharing the same experiences. She had never seen them together except at the settlement house, and she didn't want to.

Give her Maryland and the gaiety and music and Nicky and all the people she could share experiences with.

But she was not to spend that Christmas at Willoughby hall. The telegram came at six o'clock, when she was winding a bright red scarf around Patsy O'Brien's neck. She read it, swallowed the forlornness that swept over her and thrust it into her skirt pocket. No need to tell anybody that she wasn't going to Maryland because Aunt Edna's sister had died and Uncle Mark and Aunt Edna were already on their way to St. Louis.

Fabienne Seymour didn't want anybody to be sorry for her because she had no place to go on Christmas.

High office is like a pyramid; only two kinds of animals reach the summit, reptiles and eagles. —D'Almeida.

Today's Horoscope

Those who are celebrating birthdays today may look forward to a year of steadily prosperity. There is prospect of gain through an older or by inheritance. A child born on this date will probably be somewhat erratic and unstable, self-willed and rebellious. He or she will, nevertheless, possess a certain dignity and charm of manner, and be moderately fortunate throughout life.

Hints on Etiquette

In writing a social letter, the correct sequence of pages is the simplest, namely, one, two, three, four. When writing a short note, however of two pages only you may use one and three for a better balance.

Horoscope for Sunday

A fortunate year is ahead of those whose birthday is today. Gain will come through business, inheritance, young people and ecclesiastical matters. The child born today will be artistic and musical, but too much inclined to the opposite sex. Health should be guarded all life long, and unnecessary risks avoided.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. Baltimore, Maryland.
2. In the lungs.
3. Verse which does not depend on rhyme or meter is so called. Free verse does have a certain rhythm, however.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By— Charles P. Stewart

DEMOCRATIC ("democratic" with a little "d"; not partisan Democracy, but the kind of world democracy that opposes totalitarianism, like Naziism, Communism and Fascism) — democratic diplomacy in Washington is decidedly interested in what Il Duce Mussolini is up to in Italy. He's strengthening his army, but not, he says, with a view to Italian participation in the war of today. Instead he explains, he's doing it to make sure that his country gets what he thinks it's entitled to when peace is made. It's quite well known what he does think it's entitled to—Carsica a good bit of French North Africa, maybe dominance over the British in Egypt and certainly control of the Balkans, regardless of Russia's claims. But what are his chances of getting what he wants?

Democratic ("d") observers give Benito credit for being a far abler statesman than Der Fuehrer Hitler, they don't like him, but they don't assess him as being what Winston Churchill called Hitler — a "maniac." Now, has he got something up his sleeve? And, if he has, will it work?

ITALY OUTCLASSED NOW With Germany solidly behind him, of course, Adolf had Benito heavily outclassed as to military potency. Before the war started, France had him outclassed, too — not to mention France and Britain combined.

However, there are numerous rumors that Herr Hitler is up against plenty of discontent at home. We hear them here in the United States. Il Duce may know more about their reliability there. He may reckon that, if there's a prolonged war, Germany will revolute and become temporarily inconsequential, and that the Allies will be so completely tickered out that even they will hesitate to challenge an Italian grab.

The United States naturally won't be concerned.

Russia, in the Balkans, will remain to be offset.

Yet the minute that Russia is involved in a European conflict, though with so minor a power as Italy, the best guess is that Japan will jump on the Soviets in the Orient.

The Japs and Stalin have talked mutual anti-aggression, but nobody takes it for granted that that's more than skin deep.

IT'S A GAMBLE

It's an Italian gamble, to be sure.

Still, it isn't such a bad bet. It implies a complete betrayal of the Rome-Berlin axis, but who cares for a little act of treason, like that, these times!

American diplomacy isn't violently worried as to these possibilities. Its calculation is that Italy never will become a major power. It won't greatly affect us, anyway. But it may bother democratic Europe materially.

A federal Europe, like our federation of states, is the pacifistic idea.

The question is:

How are democratic governments, like Britain's France's Holland's, Belgium's, Switzerland's and the Scandinavians, going to federate with the totalitarians?

The democracies might get along with Il Duce Mussolini. Never with Der Fuehrer Hitler or Comrade Stalin.

Il Duce resorted to castor oil, but he didn't kill anybody, except a man or two who had proved troublesome. He never resorted to wholesale purges.

Benito didn't operate on a wholesale basis; he has been a retailer.

He's kept his country semi-civilized.

Garden Club Meeting Held At Crites Home

Enjoyable Talks Provided For Program

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Crites of North Court Street extended the hospitality of their home to members of the Pickaway County Garden Club Friday when they convened for their December meeting.

The session was called to order by Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker, club president, minutes of the previous meeting and the roll call being read by Mrs. G. G. Campbell, club secretary.

Mrs. Donald H. Watt, treasurer, gave her report. Mrs. Hunsicker asked for a report of the Garden Exchange from Miss Mary Heffner. The exchange was held recently at the home of Miss Florence Dunton. Mrs. James Moffitt interested the group with her vivid report of the recent lecture on "Holiday Decorations" by Dorothy Biddle, who spoke in Chillicothe. Mrs. Moffitt, assisted by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke, had contributed several musical selections for the Chillicothe program.

The club voted to give $40 to Miss Clara Southard, case worker, to purchase necessities for needy families at Christmas time.

Mrs. F. K. Blair and Mrs. Richard Jones, members of the program committee, named Miss Mary and Miss Ruth McKenzie and Mrs. Ralph Head, members of the Kingston Garden Club, as judges in the winter bouquet arrangement of vases, baskets and wall pockets contributed by various members of the club. The first prize was won by Mrs. Watt, who had arranged an artistic basket filled with blue spruce, boxwood and snow berries, centered with three red candles and red ribbon. Honorable mention was given Mrs. Frank Marion for her pleasing arrangement of Japanese lanterns.

"Gardening with the Current Magazine" was the topic of the talk by Mrs. Blanche Mutschman, who gave a resume of the history of the magazine, and the part it plays in the life of mankind today.

Mrs. Mutschman stated that in 1935, there were 2,009 magazines published each month in the United States, and that there were more than one million copies sold each month.

A brief resume of the contents of many of the popular garden editions was given by the speaker.

In closing, Mrs. Mutschman presented high lights on a timely subject to the gardener, "Horticultural Etiquette" from the standpoint of the garden visitor and the garden owner.

Miss Florence Dunton contributed copies of the various magazines for the use of the speaker.

The second number of the program was a delightful talk by R. L. Brehmer who spoke first of the hardships endured by a Dutch salesman of tulip bulbs, who had visited his greenhouses, Thursday.

Due to the European war the man had been required to spend 17 days crossing the Atlantic, a trip that generally takes four and one-half days. He related facts concerning the bombings and the struggles of his crew encountered saving refugees enroute to this country.

He mentioned the loss the Dutch would suffer since they could not ship bulbs to England and that the Dutch government would only allow 50% of the space to be used for bulb culture, because of the shortage of food. He told that in Holland, which is in dire need, they eat crocus bulbs, making puddings using the bulbs, the result being similar to our topioca puddings. Animals will eat the tulip bulbs, but no animal will eat the hyacinth bulb.

Mr. Brehmer showed specimens of some of his valued varieties of chrysanthemums, among the most beautiful exhibited were the Frieda, Masterpiece, Crimson Glow, Chief Logan, Helen Hubbard, Citrus Queen and the Fuji, a Japanese variety. At the close of the talk, a round table discussion was held with Mr. Brehmer consultant.

Winter flower arrangements were viewed at the close of the program after which the group was invited to the dining room which was artistically decorated in Christmas designs. The spacious table was centered with an arrangement of frosted barberry. Delectable refreshments were served. Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker and Mrs. Norbert Cochran presiding at the tea and coffee urns.

Mrs. Crites was assisted by Mrs. Leland Pontius, Mrs. Richard Pontius, Mrs. Richard Jones and Mrs. Charles Pugsley.

The January meeting will be at the home of Mrs. F. K. Blair. Mrs. Smith Hulse will speak on "Herbs, Dear Plants of Other Years".

Calendar

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Crites of North Court Street extended the hospitality of their home to members of the Pickaway County Garden Club Friday when they convened for their December meeting.

The session was called to order by Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker, club president, minutes of the previous meeting and the roll call being read by Mrs. G. G. Campbell, club secretary.

Mrs. Donald H. Watt, treasurer, gave her report. Mrs. Hunsicker asked for a report of the Garden Exchange from Miss Mary Heffner. The exchange was held recently at the home of Miss Florence Dunton. Mrs. James Moffitt interested the group with her vivid report of the recent lecture on "Holiday Decorations" by Dorothy Biddle, who spoke in Chillicothe. Mrs. Moffitt, assisted by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke, had contributed several musical selections for the Chillicothe program.

The club voted to give $10 to Miss Clara Southward, case worker, to purchase necessities for needy families at Christmas time.

Mrs. F. K. Blair and Mrs. Richard Jones, members of the program committee, named Miss Mary and Miss Ruth McKenzie and Mrs. Ralph Head, members of the Kingston Garden Club, as judges in the winter bouquet arrangement of vases, baskets and wall pockets contributed by various members of the club.

The first prize was won by Mrs. Watt, who had arranged an artistic basket filled with blue spruce, boxwood and snow berries, centered with three red candles and red ribbon. Honorable mention was given Mrs. Frank Marion for her pleasing arrangement of Japanese lanterns.

"Gardening with the Current Magazine" was the topic of the talk by Mrs. Blanche Motschman, who gave a resume of the history of the magazine, and the part it plays in the life of mankind today.

Mrs. Motschman stated that in 1935, there were 2,009 magazines published each month in the United States, and that there were more than one million copies sold each month.

A brief resume of the contents of many of the popular garden editions was given by the speaker.

In closing, Mrs. Motschman presented high lights on a timely subject to the gardener, "Horticultural Etiquette" from the standpoint of the garden visitor and the garden owner.

Miss Florence Dunton contributed copies of the various magazines for the use of the speaker.

The second number of the program was a delightful talk by R. L. Brehmer who spoke first of the hardships endured by a Dutch salesman of tulip bulbs, who had visited his greenhouses, Thursday. Due to the European war the man had been required to spend 17 days crossing the Atlantic, a trip that generally takes four and one-half days. He related facts concerning the bombings and the struggles of his crew encountered saving refugees enroute to this country. He mentioned the loss the Dutch would suffer since they could not committee for the Christmas baskets, other members including Mrs. Guy Pettit, Mrs. Ralph Crist, Mrs. George Bach and Mrs. George Littleton.

Plans were made for the Christmas gifts of Harry Kelber, the boy at the Worthington Children's Home whom the class has taken under its care. Mrs. Joe Work and Mrs. N. E. Reichelderfer were named to choose a gift for him.

The nominating committee, which will report at the January session, includes Mrs. G. D. Phillips, Mrs. Fred Griner and Mrs. Paul Johnson.

Mrs. Phillips arranged the delightful Christmas program for the evening. Christmas carols, "Come All Ye Faithful" and "O Little Town of Bethlehem", were sung by seven young girls, robed in white and carrying burning white tapers. The chorus included Ann Hott, Rosemary Brown, Joan Bowers, Anna Sue Reichelderfer, Patty Owens, Florence Dresbach and Betty Waters, with Mrs. Edwin Bach at the piano.

Mrs. William T. Elm told the beautiful Christmas story, "The Young Magi" after which, Mrs. W. L. Strouse, Mrs. Edwin Bach, Mrs. Ray Reid and Mrs. Reichelderfer sang the carols, "Joy to the World", "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear" and "Silent Night". Mrs. Harriet Hennessy played the accompaniments.

Prayer was offered during the devotion by the Rev. C. F. Bowman.

The January social committee is comprised of Mrs. Orville Trono, chairman, Mrs. Reichelderfer, Mrs. Walter Denman, Mrs. L. M. Brown, Mrs. John Ward, Miss Lillian Young and Miss Helen Fausnaugh.

Dinner Party
Mr. and Mrs. Sam Pontius entertained at dinner Thursday at their home near Circleville.

Covers were laid for Mrs. Pearl Hall, Russell Hall and children, Pearlene, Esther and Eugene, Gaylord Hall and daughter, Lois, Eugene Dille, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fouch and sons, Carl and Doyle, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Green and children, Rosemary, Pearl and David Lee. Music was included in the entertainment of the evening.

Merry-Makers Club
Mrs. Irene Newton was elected president of the Merry-Makers' Sewing Club of the Order of Eastern Star at the meeting Friday at the home of Mrs. Frank Marion, North Scioto Street. Mrs. C. D. Bennett and Miss Virginia Marion were assisting hostesses.

Mrs. Newton will be assisted in her work during the year by Miss Carrie Johnson who was chosen co-president; Mrs. Fred Moeller, secretary and Mrs. G. S. Corne, treasurer.

Mrs. Myron Johnson presented a reading, a written contest and hour of sewing completing the diversions of the afternoon. Lunch was served by the hostesses.

Plans for the next meeting, which will be held in the Red room, Masonic Temple, include a Christmas party and exchange of gifts. It is requested that donations of canned goods for the Christmas baskets for the needy be taken to this session.

Pythian Sisters
Annual election of officers will be held Thursday at the regular meeting of Pythian Sisters in the lodge room, Pythian Castle.

Magic Sewing Club
The Magic Sewing club will meet Thursday at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Russell Skaggs, South Pickaway Street.

Royal Neighbors Elect
Officers for the coming year were chosen Friday when members of the Royal Neighbors met in regular session in the lodge room, Modern Woodmen hall. For the third time, Mrs. George Bennett was elected to the oracle's chair.

Others chosen include Mrs. Lawrence Stonerok, vice oracle; Mrs. Stanley Peters, past oracle; Mrs. Adolphus Pearce, recorder; Mrs. William B. Cady, receiver; Mrs. William Madden, chancellor; Mrs. Claude Robinson, marshal; Mrs. William Hudson, assistant marshal; Mrs. Oscar Root, inner-sentinel; Mrs. Robert Stebleton, outer-sentinel; James Ryan, Mrs. Kenneth Henn and Mrs. William Schlegler, managers; Dr. C. E.

Music on Kiwanis Program

The third program of the Kiwanis Club's entertainment festival will be a top notch musical team from Boston, the DiCrosta-Ferrari Company, in a program they call "Musical Moments." The festival series is being presented each Monday evening at the Circleville High School auditorium, proceeds going to the Kiwanis Club's summer health camp fund. The program starts at 8 o'clock.

Mr. DiCrosta skillfully plays "every instrument in the band" and disproves the adage "Jack of all trades, master of none" by playing in rapid succession the saxophone, flute, piccolo, French horn, trumpet, clarinet, slide trombone and baritone horn.

Miss Ferrari—Mrs. DiCrosta in private life—is an exceptional artist on the piano-accompanist, in addition, uses her pleasing soprano voice to advantage in this unusually versatile program.

These artists have had a long and successful career and have been especially popular with clubs and civic groups in New England. They recently enjoyed a coast-to-coast tour on the R-K-O Circuits.

Every one enjoys a "romp with music" and an evening with the DiCrosta-Ferrari Company is one of unforgettable pleasure.

High School Band To Give Concert

TEAM PRESENTS
ENTERTAINMENT TO HIGH SCHOOL

The Apollo Entertainers, a musical team composed of Signor and Signora Sperandeo, presented a program in assembly Tuesday morning at 10:30.

Senora Elsie Sperandeo furnished piano solos and accompaniments; Giovanni Sperandeo rendered vocal selections of classical and semi-classical music.

A high-light of the program was Signor Sperandeo's talk on overcoming his physical handicap. He encouraged those attending the assembly to strive harder with these mottoes: "Work Wins"; "Never be satisfied with less than your best"; "Have a definite aim in life."

During the program, the Sperandeos appeared in a variety of colorful costumes.

At the close of the assembly, Signor Sperandeo autographed his photograph for anyone who purchased it.

C. H. S. DEBATORS
ATTEND ANNUAL
CLINIC AT STATE

Members of the C. H. S. Debate club were busy preparing speeches this week for their participation in the O. S. U. debate clinic held Friday and Saturday.

Friday evening seven members of the club and Samuel R. Johnson, instructor, journeyed to Columbus where, at 8:00, they attended a debate between Ohio State and Illinois in the men's gymnasium of the university. Those who attended the contest besides Mr. Johnson were William Burget, Dorothy Cook, Marvinne Hennessy, Lloyd Jones, Robert Schumm, Mary Adele Snider and Paul Turner.

This morning at 9:30, seven club members took part in the series of practice debates which were held in Derby Hall. In these contests, William Burget, Marvinne Hennessy, and Lloyd Jones debated the negative and Blenn Cook, Dorothy Cook, Leland Sieglward and Mary Adele Snider supported the affirmative.

The question for debate this year is "Resolved: That the Federal Government Should Own and Operate All the Railroads."

HI-Y CLUB HOLDS
TENTH MEETING

Monday at the regular Hi-Y meeting Thomas Harden presided and the meeting was called to order a half hour early.

David Hilyard gave a report on his findings on the matter of inviting the Sr. Girl Reserves to a party. He had not completed his investigations and stated the complete data would be presented to the club at the next regular meeting.

After the business meeting Tom Harden presented motion pictures taken by his brother. The pictures were taken during Pumpkin Show, and after the first had been completed, another was shown pertaining to the junk yard derby.

Friday the delegates to the district meeting at Massillon, Ohio were excused and started from the high school building in club adviser Thomas Armstrong's automobile. The members attending the meeting from Circleville are David Eagleson, Jack Imier, President Gale Hitchcock, Marshall Cupp and Mr. Armstrong.

STAFF BEGINS WORK

Freshman, sophomore and junior class group pictures were taken Friday for the annual. Photography is supervised by the business staff of the "Circleville," the pictures are taken by C. F. Zaenglein.

C. H. S. annual staff held its first meeting Tuesday after school. At this meeting the entire staff discussed covers and lay out. The business staff discussed advertising and subscription campaigns at the meeting. As yet the junior representatives of the staff have not been appointed.

LEST WE FORGET

In about a week we will be asked to contribute to the annual tuberculosis campaign by buying Christmas Seals. We quote from the "Jacket Journal", Mt. Vernon high school.

"This year let us put over the Christmas seal sale and other projects to further tuberculosis aid. No home is safe from tuberculosis until all homes are safe. Even you may need aid some day."

Let us remember this when we are asked to do our part.

EDITORIAL

Following is another in the Red and Black's series of exchange editorials. This appeared originally in the Jacket Journal—the bi-monthly publication of Mount Vernon high school.

Members of the journalism class feel that it is timely, and well-worth the consideration of C. H. S. pupils. Has it any application to our school problems?

IS THE GREENER PASTURE
ACROSS THE FENCE?

"Where are our memories? Do we the educated students of Mount Vernon High school need little books to tell us just what to do, when? Some, by their looks, even need details on how to do it, where? Then again there are a few of those innocent forgetfuls that just do something wrong on purpose. These are the trouble makers. Let us give an example of the seating arrangement in Chapel.

Every room in the high school has certain seats allotted to them! Sit There. When you sit some where else you cause trouble every time. The person in whose seat you sit has to find another seat throwing some other person out of a seat and so on in an endless chain of seat throw-outs. When you have a special seat assigned to you it is your duty to sit there whether you like it or not, its just for thirty minutes or so. All seats are the same, one is just as comfortable as the other! But wait, students, we don't think it's all your fault that you don't sit in the right seat. In our estimation it's the teacher's, yes, teachers! Teachers, we believe it's your responsibility to see that your class is in the right seats. Account for every person. Where he is; why he's there; has he a right to? Only through the cooperation of students and teachers can we have a good efficient chapel, assembly or house. Remember the seat across the aisle isn't any better than your own! It's been proved!"

E. M. S. MEMBERS
STUDY ESSAYS

Reading of the minutes, a treasurer's report, and roll call, Wednesday evening, opened the business session of the second regular meeting of the year for the E. M. S.

The essay committee presented the program which consisted of an original descriptive paragraph and two essays by famous authors. Marilyn Lutz read an original descriptive paragraph, and Howard Mumford Jones' "Nobility Wanted", published in this month's Atlantic Monthly, was presented by Mary Lutz. Rose Anne Griner read a humorous essay by Charles Lamb named "Dissertation of a Roast Pig." Mary and Rose Anne led a short discussion on the subject after the presentation of their essays.

In two weeks, the fiction division consisting of Helen Beck, Lloyd Jones, Norma Jean Starkey, chairman, Bernice Strawser and Doris Waters will present the program.

RESERVES, MAKE CAMPAIGN PLANS

At their meeting Monday, the Junior Girl Reserves made plans for a toy campaign. Boxes for the toys are in the committee room. Toys will be brought by members of the student body. The deadline for all toys brought is December 15. All girls will make posters advertising it.

Margaret Boggs, president, announced that the cabinet members will meet and discuss committees for the Christmas party. The party is to be held for the underprivileged children. Each girl is to bring a child of her own choice.

Hi-Y boys were to come to the meeting and tell of the "ideal girl." Instead, the members discussed the "ideal boy." All agreed that he should be courteous, ambitious, neat in appearance and intelligent.

ALUMNI NOTES

Among those graduates who returned to Circleville for the Thanksgiving vacation were Lewis Cooper, Robert Lane, Philip Moore and Robert Owens of Ohio State; Frank Barnhill, Jennings Turner and Richard Weldon of the University of Cincinnati; Eugene Dewey and Hildeburn Martin of Capital University.

W. H. Nelson, Purdue; William Heffner, ex '40 Cranbrook military academy; Jack Clifton ex '40 Greenbrier military academy; Ruth Clark, Bliss College; and Helen Evans and Medrith Bach, Office Training school.

GRADING PERIOD ENDS

Yesterday completed the second six-weeks grading period in the '39-'40 school year. Throughout this week teachers gave various examinations, and grade cards will be distributed next Wednesday, morning. Honor roll pupils will be published in the next edition of the Red and Black.

GROUP TO PLAY
LOCAL THEATER
TO RAISE FUNDS

Tickets for the band concert, to be held on December 6, at the Cliftona Theatre were distributed this week. This concert is for the purpose of raising money for band uniforms. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Senior or Junior bands.

Prices are the same as those found at the box office of the theatre—thirty, twenty and ten cents, for adults; students; and children's tickets respectively. The high school band receives one-half of the proceeds from these tickets. Purchases made at the box office will not benefit the band.

Friday, Pat Bennett and Sam Stubbs canvassed the grade schools for sales.

This concert is the first in a series of two. The next one will be held on December 13.

C. F. Zaenglein appointed Sam Stubbs to manage the campaign.

RESERVES HAVE
TEA WEDNESDAY

Members of the Senior Girl Reserve advisory council were entertained at a tea in the social room Wednesday afternoon. These advisers, Mrs. Thomas Armstrong, Mrs. Virgil Cress and Mrs. Howard Orr, were elected to the council several weeks ago and will serve for one year.

A musical program was presented by Martha Mavis, chairman of the program committee. Regina Thornton played two piano solos, and a chorus composed of Rose Anne Griner, Barbara Johnson, Marilyn Lutz, Mary Kathryn Pile, Mary Adele Snider, Regina Thornton and Lena Webbe sang three semi-classical songs. The program follows.

"Prelude in C major—Chopin piano solo.

"Circibiribin" — A. Pestalozza chorus.

"Will You Remember?"—from "Maytime" — Sigmund Romberg chorus.

"Valse in C sharp minor—Chopin piano solo.

"Sympathy"—from "The Firefly"—Rudolf Friml chorus.

At the next regular meeting, December 6, Harry Parker will speak on aviation.

LITERARY GROUP
INITIATES SEVEN

Annual initiation dinner of the Poetry Club members was held Thursday evening at Sylvia's Party Home.

Regina Thornton introduced each initiate and in turn they gave their contribution. Harriet Walters and Iona Quincel presented an original play, "The Strange Thanksgiving."

Modern poetry, by Edna St. Vincent Millay was read by Miriam Brown and Barbara Caskey. Miriam read "Travel" and Barbara gave "Autumn Daybreak." A scene from Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew" was re-enacted by Dorothy Reid and Homer Anderson.

Norma Jean Betts and Barbara Caskey read Lady MacBeth's sleep walking scene from Shakespeare's "MacBeth."

Original work was presented by Iona Quincel and Homer Anderson.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

from Labor to the Justice Department. Finally, Congress has been threatening to make the Wage-Hour Administration independent of Miss Perkins, and probably will do it.

If these changes take place, the Labor Department becomes a mere shell. It would sink almost to the status, measured by annual appropriations, of the old Bituminous Coal Commission or the Civil Service Commission.

The Labor Department's total appropriation for the present fiscal year is $30,536,170. But if the Children's Bureau, Immigration and Naturalization, plus Wages-and-Hours are taken away, Miss Perkins' appropriation would sink to the incredible pittance of only $4,347,150.

FDR NEVER FIRES

It is axiomatic that Franklin Roosevelt never fires anyone. He may send them abroad to study industrial conditions, as he proposed sending NRA Boss Johnson. Or he may ask them to study crime, as he did Professor Moley. Or he may transfer them to the Export-Import Bank, as he did George Peek. Or he may strip their department of important duties, as some people suspect he is now doing to his Secretary of Labor.

If this is his tactic, however, it seems likely to fail. For those who know Miss Perkins well say she will stick it out even if her office furniture is dragged out from under her.

Furthermore, if this actually is Roosevelt's strategy, he does not get good cooperation from his wife. Mrs. Roosevelt is Miss Perkins' most ardent supporter. She has even given "Fanny" a friendly tip of labor instead of emphasizing research and social work. Also Mrs. Roosevelt came to the rescue of the Labor Department at a recent off-the-record talk before departmental bureau chiefs.

RED TAPE ALIENS

She told them that the Labor and Agriculture Departments had many problems in common and should cooperate closely. Her own trips through the country, she said, had convinced her that there was a growing consciousness among farmers that their welfare depended upon the wages paid to labor, and that a sweatshop employer works against the best interest of the farmer because his employees lack sufficient money to buy farm produce.

Much of the farm surplus would be consumed by the other one-third of the nation, Mrs. Roosevelt predicted, if labor were better paid. Mrs. Roosevelt even went so far as to suggest tactfully that the Immigration and Naturalization Service get rid of red tape, re-define the word "alien", and make it simple for foreigners to become a citizen.

Last but not least, Mrs. Roosevelt suggested that the Labor Department establish better press relations so as to get across to the American public the job it was doing for labor.

NO WOMAN'S JOB

Boiled down to the last analysis, the chief handicap of Miss Perkins is that she cannot help being a woman at a time when two groups of men are waging a labor war until the death. As a woman, Miss Perkins abhors strife. One reason for her failure to heal the labor breach is that she hates to see Green and Lewis battle. And when they get together they always battle.

Peace, to Miss Perkins, is when Bill Green and John L. Lewis are apart.

LEGION MILLION DOLLAR EVENT PROVES SUCCESS

Carl Drumm, Amanda, won the grand prize, a gladstone bag, Friday night, at Million Dollar Night staged in Memorial Hall by Howard Hall Post, American Legion.

A fair-sized crowd attended the celebration which was termed an hilarious success. Proceeds from the celebration will be donated by the Legion to the Circleville Christmas program.

The door prize, a radio, was won by Mrs. Dwight Famulener, Kingston. Other winners of major prizes were Miss Isabel Gearhart, nurse at Berger Hospital, lamp; Harry Bartholomew, East Mound Street, a dress; Miss Virginia Wickensimer, nurse at Berger Hospital, a hat; Senet Cryder, East Main Street, box of cigars; John Goodchild, East Franklin Street, a box of candy; Mrs. Mar-

SEVEN WPA MEN LOSE THEIR JOBS AFTER INQUIRY

Some Pickaway County WPA workers may lose their positions as the result of their failure to accept work as corn huskers or to report for private employment. This was revealed by C. A. Bennett, of Columbus, in charge of the Circleville employment office of the Ohio State Employment Service. The Circleville office is operated on Fridays.

Mr. Bennett said WPA officials are checking farmers to verify whether WPA workers who have been assigned to corn husking in the last two weeks reported for work and accepted private employment.

Mr. Bennett explained that some WPA workers were assigned to corn husking positions in recent weeks when a shortage of huskers developed. Those assigned to the private employment are given a card and when they complete their work for the farmer he is to sign the card.

The manager of the employment service said the check, on workers developed from reports reaching him concerning some WPA employees recently sent to the farm of John Puffinbarger near Williamsport. Six men were assigned, Mr. Bennett said. Three failed to report for work and three who reported at the Puffinbarger farm refused to work but wanted their cards signed.

Mr. Bennett said the report was referred to WPA officials for investigation.

WILSON DIVORCE

Suit for divorce cruelty and neglect of duty was filed in Common Pleas Court Friday by Josephine Wilson against Herman Wilson, East Main Street. They were married October 7, 1933 in Circleville, the petition says, and have no children. Mrs. Wilson asks her maiden name of Parcels be restored.

Shenandoah National park, in Virginia, and the Great Smoky Mountain National park, Tennessee and North Carolina, are the most visited of all the national parks of the United States.

SEVEN WPA MEN LOSE THEIR JOBS AFTER INQUIRY

Some Pickaway County WPA workers may lose their positions as the result of their failure to accept work as corn huskers or to report for private employment. This was revealed by C. A. Bennett, of Columbus, in charge of the Circleville employment office of the Ohio State Employment Service. The Circleville office is operated on Fridays.

Mr. Bennett said WPA officials are checking farmers to verify whether WPA workers who have been assigned to corn husking in the last two weeks reported for work and accepted private employment.

Mr. Bennett explained that some WPA workers were assigned to corn husking positions in recent weeks when a shortage of huskers developed. Those assigned to the private employment are given a card and when they complete their work for the farmer he is to sign the card.

The manager of the employment service said the check on workers developed from reports reaching him concerning some WPA employees recently sent to the farm of John Puffinbarger near Williamsport. Six men were assigned. Mr. Bennett said. Three failed to report for work and three who reported at the Puffinbarger farm refused to work but wanted their cards signed.

Mr. Bennett said the report was referred to WPA officials for investigation.

WILSON DIVORCE

Suit for divorce charging cruelty and neglect of duty was filed in Common Pleas Court Friday by Josephine Wilson against Herman Wilson, East Main Street. They were married October 7, 1933 in Circleville, the petition says, and have no children. Mrs. Wilson asks her maiden name of Parcels be restored.

from Labor to the Justice Department. Finally, Congress has been threatening to make the Wage-Hour Administration independent of Miss Perkins, and probably will do it.

If these changes take place, the Labor Department becomes a mere shell. It would sink almost to the status, measured by annual appropriations, of the old Bituminous Coal Commission or the Civil Service Commission.

The Labor Department's total appropriation for the present fiscal year is $30,536,170. But if the Children's Bureau, Immigration and Naturalization, plus Wages-and-Hours are taken away, Miss Perkins' appropriation would sink to the incredible pittance of only $4,347,150.

FIREMEN ISSUE PLEA FOR MORE TOYS FOR YULE

Pile Of Larger Playthings Far Too Short, Say Workmen

GRAND THEATRE ASSISTS

275 Children Attend Free Show Saturday Morning; Dolls Are Needed

Unless Circleville and community children, and their parents, too, come to the assistance of the fire department immediately the Christmas toy distribution program will fall far short this year. Firemen declared Saturday that they are sorely in need of larger toys, including tricycles, wagons, and trucks. Even the doll supply is far from last year's, firemen declared.

The firefighters have been repairing toys in their leisure time during the last several years, and each year many homes that probably would not otherwise do so are enjoying the Christmas spirit. An appeal goes out each year for toys, but this year the pile of playthings is far too small.

A free picture show given by the Grand Theatre Saturday morning helped the pile of toys, but few larger playthings were obtained. Dick Offenbacher, theatre manager, reported that 275 children enjoyed the complete theatre program, each giving a toy as his admission price. Offenbacher presented each child with a stick of candy.

The pile of toys was taken to the engine house.

Firemen are well equipped with materials and tools for repair of the toys, the Policeman's and Fireman's Ball funds and private contributions helping the cause.

Children are urged to dig through their piles of toys in an effort to find some that they believe would make other kiddies happy during the holiday season, take them to the engine house or call the fire department.

SAFETY CRUISER STAYS IN CITY FOR INSPECTION

The 53-foot motor "educational safety cruiser" in charge of Captain H. C. Berry, remained in Circleville Saturday for the inspection of adults and children.

The cruiser visited all city schools except the high school and Corwin Street buildings Friday. Captain Berry said he hoped to make arrangements with school officials to visit the other schools Monday. Police Chief William McCrady, Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver accompanied the cruiser on the trip to the schools.

The cruiser was placed at Court and Main Streets Saturday afternoon for inspection. It will be open Saturday night from 7 to 9 o'clock.

The cruiser is equipped like a hospital ward to impress upon children and adults the importance of safety.

YOUNG ABDUCTOR SOUGHT AFTER ESCAPE AT LIMA

LIMA, Dec. 2 — Police and state highway patrolmen throughout northwestern Ohio were on the lookout today for a young, white bandit who kidnapped Benjamin Seitz, Lima insurance agent, and robbed him of his automobile and $10.

Seitz told police he was accosted in a downtown parking lot. At the point of a pistol he was forced to drive, he said, to a spot five miles north of Lima. Then he was ordered from his car as the gunman drove away in the direction of Findlay on U. S. route 25.

WIFE OF ROBERT SEITZ, WALNUT TOWNSHIP, DIES

Mrs. Orpha Irene Seitz, 65, wife of Robert Seitz, died Saturday at 7:40 a. m. at her home in Walnut Township.

The funeral will be Monday at 1 p. m. in the Circleville Church of Christ in Christian Union, the Rev. O. L. Ferguson officiating. Burial will be in Allensville, Ross County, cemetery, by H. E. Defenbaugh and Sons.

Surviving are the husband, two sons, Earl and Dewey, and four grandchildren.

fire to villages during bombing attacks by Russian planes. When Finnish planes tried to intervene in these engagements, 10 Finnish planes were shot down. Two of our planes failed to return to their bases.

"Our troops occupied Petsamo. Others approached Murmes, 25 kilometers (15 miles) beyond the frontier in the region of Petrosmetk, and reached the mouth of the river Yoki on the Carelian isthmus.

"On the shores of Lake Ladoga our troops occupied the railway stations of Rauti and, leaving Ketsbolme behind, occupied the Terijoki railway junction as well as several other places.

"The retreating Finnish troops are compelling civilians to withdraw with them."

Voroshilov in Charge
(The London Daily Mail picked up a Moscow broadcast saying that War Commissar Klement Voroshilov is in personal command of the troops on the Finnish frontier.

(Sixteen divisions—about 240,000 men—are fighting Finland and they are soon to be reinforced, the Mail said. Voroshilov reportedly has at his immediate disposal 1500 airplanes, including 150 heavy bombers.)

A denial that Russia has bombed Finnish cities was coupled with the assertion that the new Finnish government is still unsatisfactory, in a statement given to United States Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt by Foreign Commissar Premier Vyacheslav M. Molotov. It said:

"President Roosevelt's request to avoid bombardments of Finnish cities from the air must, as far as this wish is addressed to the Soviet government, be based on a misunderstanding.

No Towns Bombed
"Soviet planes have not bombed towns and are not going to do so. We have bombed only airports and military objectives, since our government respects the interests of the Finnish people.

"Certainly, one may fail to see this from America, which is more than 5,000 miles away from Finland. But facts are facts. And, in view of this, President Roosevelt's message is pointless."

Molotov took special exception to the inclusion of V. A. Tanner as foreign minister in the government, which replaced that headed by Premier Aimo K. Cajander. He said:

"The resignation of Cajander's government and the substitution of Tanner's government unfortunately does not improve matters. This is undoubtedly the vestige of the evil genius of the Russo-Finnish negotiations. The Soviet government expects no good to come from the Tanner government.

"On the other hand, the formation of the new people's government (the Kuusinen government of Terijoki) is an important factor. It gives fresh hope to the Soviet government that a peaceful and satisfactory solution of the present conflict may be reached."

G. B. S. BLAMES AMERICA FOR PLIGHT OF FINNS

LONDON, Dec. 2—Hinting that America was responsible for Finland's resistance against Russia, George Bernard Shaw today blamed Finland's "foolish government" for the Baltic republic's present plight.

Asked whether America was supporting Finland, the playwright said in an interview with the London Daily Mail:

"Finland obviously believes so, or she would not have behaved as she has against a country so much stronger than herself."

Russia, said Shaw, is only "seeing to her own security" while Finland is "allowing herself to be used by America and the western powers."

already have left the city. Government administrative departments will follow shortly.

Provisions are plentiful, but the food shops are open only at intervals, closing every time a raid warning is sounded. Unconfirmed rumors said the German colony would be evacuated to the Reich today.

All Schools Closed
All schools have been ordered closed at once.

Field Marshal Carl Gustav Mannerheim, commander of the Finnish defense forces, issued a proclamation terming the present conflict a continuation of the "war for liberty of 1918," when Mannerheim won Finnish independence from Bolshevik Russia. Semi-official circles had nothing but ridicule to heap on the "People's Government" which Moscow said was formed under Otto Kuusinen at Terijoki.

Terijoki, it was held in Helsinki, is still in the hands of Finnish troops.

With Soviet military forces reported hurried back in the Southeast, Finnish reports said a Russian destroyer was sunk and the 8,500-ton heavy cruiser Kirov either crippled or sent to the bottom in a fight with Finnish warcraft and coast artillery off the Hango peninsula.

Eighteen Soviet planes were shot down, 36 tanks destroyed, and two whole Russian companies destroyed, according to some reports. A Finnish torpedo boat was lost in the same engagement.

Kirov One of Finest
Carrying 624 officers and men, and armed with six 7.1 inch guns, the three-year-old Kirov is one of the finest vessels in the Soviet navy. Hit after she helped three other Red vessels shell Hango, the Kirov was barely able to float away, and later Finnish reports said she sank.

Finland's war communiqué said losses to the Russian air force Friday amounted to 13 planes, but unofficial reports placed the figure higher.

All Finland's machines returned safely to their bases, it was said. Heaviest fighting took place around Suojarvi, near the Soviet frontier and north of Lake Ladoga.

"Russian attacks, however, were completely repulsed, and in one attack two Russian companies were annihilated," the bulletin said.

Finland's fighting men thereafter were able to make considerable advances on the Carelian isthmus.

Attacks from Estonia
Money found on one Russian pilot whose plane had been shot down bore out the Finns' belief that air attacks on Helsinki and other cities are being made from northern Estonia, where the Soviets recently were allowed to establish bases.

Amid the ice and snow of the Far North, where Finland has a narrow corridor reaching to the Arctic sea, the Soviets were understood to be meeting with ineffectual resistance.

Their columns were due to reach the Norwegian border early this morning.

Almost the entire population of the Salmijarvi section, numbering 1,000, travelling in sleds and cars across the frozen Pasvik River, crossed into Norway.

Timbers in the British-owned nickel mines in the Petsamo area, it was believed, will be set afire to keep them from falling into Soviet hands.

1,200 Reds Taken

(The London Daily Telegraph reported that 1,200 Russians were taken prisoner by the Finns. Finnish troops in a counter-offensive occupied Vivenapa and Joensuu and captured 200 prisoners. Exchange Telegraph said in a Helsinki dispatch. About 100,000 refugees have fled into Norway and Sweden, it added.)

Finland's new government, while continuing the fight, hopes nevertheless to arrange a truce with the Soviets.

In a statement to the United States, Premier Rytli, 50-year-old international banker, set forth the republic's attitude in the present time of stress.

"The experiences which we are undergoing," he said, "are such that they make me hope America will never undergo them. Our peace-loving people recoil in horror from the scenes of terror they have witnessed, but are not afraid, for their conscience is clear.

"Political independence is to the Finns their dearest possession. . . they are aware that they are defending the same values which inspire all the civilized nations of the world in the execution of their great historic mission . . .

"We are willing to negotiate regarding every issue that may arise between two neighbors. But we will not consent to barter away our independence nor our right to direct our own affairs. The struggle now proceeding, while negotiations with the Soviet Union are in abeyance, is the struggle of an independent, peace-loving people for their existence, for everything they hold dear in life.

World Is Witness
"The whole world is our witness that this defensive struggle is justified and is in accordance with every law that governs the existence of a nation. For this reason, the Finnish people defend themselves with stout hearts and a pure conscience."

To this Foreign Minister Tanner, on of the former negotiators with Russia, added:

"The former Finnish government found the situation too grave to continue, and a new government was formed on the basis of national coalition.

"Our big neighbor Russia would destroy our population and force us to do something we cannot accept.

"We shall try eventually through negotiations to make it clear to Russia that the only thing we want is to defend our security and neutrality.

The new government must be viewed as an expression of Finland's will to fight for its life, making no compromise on vital questions, no matter how costly this attitude may be."

COLUMBUS, Dec. 2 — Three men and a little girl were dead today, victims of a series of traffic accidents which struck with amazing rapidity within a 12-hour period.

Twenty-three-year-old Woodrow McClaskey was killed when an automobile overturned on a Columbus street. John R. Wickline, 26, Charleston, W. Va., died from injuries suffered when his automobile collided with a street car on the north side.

When his automobile struck a parked car and careened into a telephone pole, Norman Dague, 31, was mortally injured. Four-year-old Louise Ann Hughes died a few hours after she was struck by an automobile while returning home from a neighborhood grocery.

Rain and a thick layer of smoke which has hung over the city for two days were partially blamed for the fatal mishaps.

TAGS COST AUTOIST

Autos driven by Charles Stanton, 501 South Monroe Avenue, Columbus, and Hiram Adkins, 2611 Fremont, SW, Canton, were slightly damaged in a collision on Route 23 about four miles south of Circleville Friday at 8:40 p. m.

Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver, who investigated the accident, said the car driven by Stanton stopped in the road when the lights went out. The Stanton car was headed northward. The Adkins car was going southward. The two cars sideswiped, the officer said.

An auto driven by Urban Ted Haslinger, 27, Pond Run, Friendship, O., was slightly damaged at 7:10 p. m. Friday in an accident on Route 23 about three miles north of Circleville. Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell said he was told Haslinger was crowded off the highway by an auto driven by a woman. The woman stopped after the accident, but left when she learned the damage was slight. Her name was not learned.

Autos driven by Stanley Jackson, Weldon Avenue, and Edgar Creager, 335 East Main Street, were damaged at 2:45 p. m. Friday in a collision on North Court Street. No one was hurt.

Patrolman Fred Fitzpatrick reported Mrs. Don White, 415 South Court Street, driving northward on Court Street was making a turn on Seyfert Avenue. Jackson, driving back of the White car, applied his brakes to slow down, skidded and his car struck the Creager car.

FIREMEN ISSUE PLEA FOR MORE TOYS FOR YULE

Pile Of Larger Playthings Far Too Short, Say Workmen

GRAND THEATRE ASSISTS

275 Children Attend Free Show Saturday Morning; Dolls Are Needed

Unless Circleville and community children, and their parents, too, come to the assistance of the fire department immediately the Christmas toy distribution program will fall far short this year. Firemen declared Saturday that they are sorely in need of larger toys, including tricycles, wagons, and trucks. Even the doll supply is far under last year's, firemen declared.

The firefighters have been repairing toys in their leisure time during the last several years, and each year many homes that probably would not otherwise do so are enjoying the Christmas spirit.

An appeal goes out each year for toys, but this year the pile of playthings is far too small.

A free picture show given by the Grand Theatre Saturday morning helped the pile of toys, but few larger playthings were obtained. Dick Offenbacher, theatre manager, reported that 275 children enjoyed the complete theatre program, each giving a toy as his admission price. Offenbacher presented each child with a stick of candy.

The pile of toys was taken to the engine house.

Firemen are well equipped with materials and tools for repair of the toys, the Policeman's and Fireman's Ball funds and private contributions helping the cause.

Children are urged to dig through their piles of toys in an effort to find some that they believe would make other kiddies happy during the holiday season, take them to the engine house or call the fire department.

SAFETY CRUISER STAYS IN CITY FOR INSPECTION

The 53-foot motor "educational safety cruiser" in charge of Captain H. C. Berry, remained in Circleville Saturday for the inspection of adults and children.

The cruiser visited all city schools except the high school and Corwin Street buildings Friday. Captain Berry said he hoped to make arrangements with school officials to visit the other schools Monday. Police Chief William McCrady, Sheriff Charles Radloff and Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver accompanied the cruiser on the trip to the schools.

The cruiser was placed at Court and Main Streets Saturday afternoon for inspection. It will be open Saturday night from 7 to 9 o'clock.

The cruiser is equipped like a hospital ward to impress upon children and adults the importance of safety.

YOUNG ABDUCTOR SOUGHT AFTER ESCAPE AT LIMA

LIMA, Dec. 2.—Police and state highway patrolmen throughout northwestern Ohio were on the lookout today for a young, white bandit who kidnaped Benjamin Seitz, Lima insurance agent, and robbed him of his automobile and $10.

Seitz told police he was accosted in a downtown parking lot. At the point of a pistol he was forced to drive, he said, to a spot five miles north of Lima. Then he was ordered from his car as the gunman drove away in the direction of Findlay on U. S. route 25.

WIFE OF ROBERT SEITZ, WALNUT TOWNSHIP, DIES

Mrs. Orpha Irene Seitz, 65, wife of Robert Seitz, died Saturday at 7:40 a. m. at her home in Walnut Township.

The funeral will be Monday at 1 p. m. in the Circleville Church of Christ in Christian Union, the Rev. O. L. Ferguson officiating. Burial will be in Allensville, Ross County, cemetery, by H. E. Defenbaugh and Sons.

Surviving are the husband, two sons, Earl and Dewey, and four grandchildren.

New Puppet Government Recognized

fire to villages during bombing attacks by Russian planes. When Finnish planes tried to intervene in these engagements, 10 Finnish planes were shot down. Two of our planes failed to return to their bases.

"Our troops occupied Petsamo. Others approached Murmes, 25 kilometers (15 miles) beyond the frontier in the region of Petrosmetsk, and reached the mouth of the river Yoki on the Carelian isthmus.

"On the shores of Lake Ladoga our troops occupied the railway stations of Rauti and, leaving Ketsbolme behind, occupied the Terijoki railway junction as well as several other places.

"The retreating Finnish troops are compelling civilians to withdraw with them."

Voroshilov in Charge

(The London Daily Mail picked up a Moscow broadcast saying that War Commissar Klement Voroshilov is in personal command of the troops on the Finnish frontier. (Sixteen divisions—about 240,000 men—are fighting Finland and they are soon to be reinforced, the Mail said. Voroshilov reportedly has at his immediate disposal 1500 airplanes, including 150 heavy bombers.)

A denial that Russia has bombed Finnish cities was coupled with the assertion that the new Finnish government is still unsatisfactory, in a statement given to United States Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt by Foreign Commissar Premier Vyacheslav M. Molotov. It said:

"President Roosevelt's request to avoid bombardments of Finnish cities from the air must, as far as this wish is addressed to the Soviet government, be based on a misunderstanding.

No Towns Bombed

"Soviet planes have not bombed towns and are not going to do so. We have bombed only airports and military objectives, since our government respects the interests of the Finnish people.

"Certainly, one may fail to see this from America, which is more than 5,000 miles away from Finland. But facts are facts. And, in view of this, President Roosevelt's message is pointless."

Molotov took special exception to the inclusion of V. A. Tanner as foreign minister in the government, which replaced that headed by Premier Aimo K. Cajander. He said:

"The resignation of Cajander's government and the substitution of Tanner's government unfortunately does not improve matters. This is undoubtedly the vestige of the evil genius of the Russo-Finnish negotiations. The Soviet government expects no good to come from the Tanner government.

"On the other hand, the formation of the new people's government (of Terijoki) is an important factor. It gives fresh hope to the Soviet government that a peaceful and satisfactory solution of the present conflict may be reached."

G. B. S. BLAMES AMERICA FOR PLIGHT OF FINNS

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Hinting that America was responsible for Finland's resistance against Russia, George Bernard Shaw today blamed Finland's "foolish government" for the Baltic republic's present plight.

Asked whether America was supporting Finland, the playwright said in an interview with the London Daily Mail:

"Finland obviously believes so, or she would not have behaved as she has against a country so much stronger than herself."

Russia, said Shaw, is only "seeing to her own security," while Finland is "allowing herself to be used by America and the western powers."

already have left the city. Government administrative departments will follow shortly.

Provisions are plentiful, but the food shops are open only at intervals, closing every time a raid warning is sounded. Unconfirmed rumors said the German colony would be evacuated to the Reich today.

All Schools Closed

All schools have been ordered closed at once.

Field Marshal Carl Gustav Mannerheim, commander of the Finnish defense forces, issued a proclamation terming the present conflict a continuation of the "war for liberty of 1918," when Mannerheim won Finnish independence from Bolsheviki Russia. Semi-official circles had nothing but ridicule to heap on the "People's Government" which Moscow said was formed under Otto Kuusinen at Terijoki.

Terijoki, it was held in Helsinki, is still in the hands of Finnish troops. With Soviet military forces reported hurled back in the Southeast, Finnish reports said a Russian destroyer was sunk and the 8,500-ton heavy cruiser Kirov either crippled or sent to the bottom in a fight with Finnish warcraft and coast artillery off the Hango peninsula.

Eighteen Soviet planes were shot down, 36 tanks destroyed, and two whole Russian companies destroyed, according to some reports. A Finnish torpedo boat was lost in the same engagement.

Kirov One of Finest

Carrying 624 officers and men, and armed with six 7.1 inch guns, the three-year-old Kirov is one of the finest vessels in the Soviet navy. Hit after she helped three other Red vessels shell Hango, the Kirov was barely able to float away, and later Finnish reports said she sank.

Finland's war communique said losses to the Russian air force Friday amounted to 13 planes, but unofficial reports placed the figure higher.

All Finland's machines returned safely to their bases, it was said. Heaviest fighting took place around Suojarvi, near the Soviet frontier and north of Lake Ladoga.

"Russian attacks, however, were completely repulsed, and in one attack two Russian companies were annihilated," the bulletin said.

Finland's fighting men thereafter were able to make considerable advances on the Carelian isthmus.

Attacks from Estonia Money found on one Russian pilot whose plane had been shot down bore out the Finns' belief that air attacks on Helsinki and other cities are being made from northern Estonia, where the Soviets recently were allowed to establish bases.

Amid the ice and snow of the Far North, where Finland has a narrow corridor reaching to the Arctic sea, the Soviets were understood to be meeting with ineffectual resistance.

Their columns were due to reach the Norwegian border early this morning.

Almost the entire population of the Salmijarvi section, numbering 1,000, travelling in sleds and cars across the frozen Pasvik River, crossed into Norway.

Timbers in the British-owned nickel mines in the Petsamo area, it was believed, will be set afire to keep them from falling into Soviet hands.

1,200 Reds Taken

(The London Daily Telegraph reported that 1,200 Russians were taken prisoner by the Finns. Finnish troops in a counter-offensive occupied Vivenapa and Joensuu and captured 200 prisoners, Exchange Telegraph said in a Helsinki dispatch. About 100,000 refugees have fled into Norway and Sweden, it added.)

Finland's new government, while continuing the fight, hopes nevertheless to arrange a truce with the Soviets.

In a statement to the United States, Premier Ryti, 50-year-old international banker, set forth the republic's attitude in the present time of stress.

route to work. The accident happened about 5 a. m.

Autos driven by Charles Stanton, 501 South Monroe Avenue, Columbus, and Hiram Adkins, 2611 Fremont, SW, Canton, were slightly damaged in a collision on Route 23 about four miles south of Circleville Friday at 8:40 p. m.

Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver, who investigated the accident, said the car driven by Stanton stopped in the road when the lights went out. The Stanton car was headed northward. The Adkins car was going southward. The two cars sideswiped, the officer said.

An auto driven by Urban Ted Haslinger, 27, Pond Run, Friendship, O., was slightly damaged at 7:10 p. m. Friday in an accident on Route 23 about three miles north of Circleville. Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell said he was told Haslinger was crowded off the highway by an auto driven by a woman. The woman stopped after the accident, but left when she learned the damage was slight. Her name was not learned.

Autos driven by Stanley Jackson, Weldon Avenue, and Edgar Creager, 335 East Main Street, were damaged at 2:45 p. m. Friday in a collision on North Court Street. No one was hurt.

Patrolman Fred Fitzpatrick reported Mrs. Don White, 415 South Court Street, driving northward on Court Street was making a turn on Seyfert Avenue. Jackson, driving back of the White car, applied his brakes to slow down, skidded and his car struck the Creager car.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 2.—Three men and a little girl were dead today, victims of a series of traffic accidents which struck with amazing rapidity within a 12-hour period.

Twenty-three-year-old Woodrow McClaskey was killed when an automobile overturned on a Columbus street. John R. Wickline, 26, Charleston, W. Va., died from injuries suffered when his automobile collided with a street car on the north side.

When his automobile struck a parked car and careened into a telephone pole, Norman Dague, 31, was mortally injured. Four-year-old Louise Ann Hughes died a few hours after she was struck by an automobile while returning home from a neighborhood grocery.

Rain and a thick layer of smoke which has hung over the city for two days were partially blamed for the fatal mishaps.

COUNTY TOURNNEY DATES CHANGED BY STATE RULE

Pickaway County's basketball tournament will be held February 15, 16, 17, 23 and 24, a week earlier than originally scheduled.

This decision was made Saturday by superintendents of the county schools following receipt of a letter from H. R. Townsend, commissioner of athletics of the Ohio High School Athletic Association, announcing a change in dates for the state tournament.

Dates of the state tournament had to be changed due to a conflict with Easter week, the superintendents were notified.

Superintendents were informed that state sectional tournaments will be held February 29 and March 1 and 2. District contests will be held March 7, 8 and 9. The finals of the state tournament will be March 14, 15 and 16.

Games of Pickaway County schools scheduled for February 16 will be played at an earlier date. The Pickaway County tournament will be held at Atlanta school.

Charles Howell, representative of the state department of education, spoke to superintendents encouraging adult educational programs. These programs would be developed in the communities.

December 15 will be observed in the schools as Health Day.

GRETA Garbo as "Comrade Ninotchka" and Ina Claire as the exiled Russian Duchess Swana fight a verbal duel for the love of Melvyn Douglas in "Ninotchka," which brings the exciting Swedish star to the Cliftona screen Sunday in her first picture in two years. Fulfilling a life-long ambition, Garbo not only makes a departure from her costume roles but for the first time in her career essays a modern comedy part, with Ernst Lubitsch at the directorial helm. The picture also marks the second appearance of Melvyn Douglas with Garbo, the two having scored together previously in "As You Desire Me."
